Director of Publicity

To the Media:

The Milwaukee Bucks would like to welcome members of the media to the Milwaukee Arena. Our entire organization has an appreciation for your efforts and aims and will assist you in any way possible. In return, the coverage the media has afforded us throughout our years in the NBA has been superb and we appreciate your dedication. The following are some of the services we will provide and some of the things we ask of you to help us run our operation smoothly.

* Individual game credentials should be requested a minimum of the day before the game, 5 p.m. Friday for Saturday and Sunday games, or noon the day of Monday games. Pre-arranged credentials may be picked up at the will-call window in the southwest corner of the Arena just off the Kilbourn Street entrance. Credentials are good for admittance to the Arena, Press Room, and home and visiting locker rooms. Media members holding Bucks' season passes should notify this office of their intentions to cover a game in order to reserve seating on the press table. All press seating in the Milwaukee Arena is on court level.

* The press room is located on court level in the northeast corner of the Arena. The room opens 1½ hours before the game and again at halftime and following the game. Secure storage of typewriters, coats, and the like is available. We must limit press room usage to members of the media only when valid Bucks' press passes are presented. It is impossible to accommodate family members, friends, guests, or others. The professional intent of the room is to provide a meeting and working place for bonafide writers, reporters, broadcasters, and game personnel.

* Both the Bucks' and visitors' locker rooms will be open up to 45 minutes before game time and ten minutes after the game. Your cooperation is asked in maintaining a work atmosphere in the locker rooms for post-game interviews. Those newspapers with morning deadlines and TV stations doing live spots should be given preference in obtaining players and coaches. Basically, common courtesy should prevail.

* Special instructions for all cameramen can be found on the back of the season photo passes and on the envelopes in which the single game passes are issued.

* Pre-game press notes, lineup and scoring sheets, and the current program insert will be available in the Press Room before the game. Programs will be available on a limited basis. Play-by-play, quarter stats, and half-time box scores will be delivered directly to the press table. Please keep sets quarter-by-quarter. A limited number of play-by-play sheets and halftime boxes will be available in the Press Room after the game. Complete final boxes and fourth quarter play-by-plays will be available after the game in the Press Room.

* The Bucks provide complimentary telecopier service at every home game. Steve Radke and Jim Grayson operate the service. Special arrangements to file off day stories or the like can be made through the Bucks publicity office.

* The NBA operates a 24 hour hotline during the season. The 800 number is available through the Bucks publicity office.

Cordially,
Bill King II

1986-87 SCHEDULE FORMAT

The 23 member teams of the National Basketball Association will celebrate the 41st anniversary of the League this season. The 943 game NBA schedule will run 171 days, the same length as the previous six seasons, and will conclude on Sunday, April 19. The schedule-maker was able to arrange games so that no team is scheduled to play on three consecutive days and all games scheduled for the month of April are between teams within the same conference, thus heightening their impact on the playoff races. Also, no team will play a day game following a game the previous night.

A highlight of the 1986-87 campaign will be the 37th Annual NBA All-Star game, which will be played at the Kingdome in Seattle on Sunday afternoon, February 8, starting at 12 noon local time, and will be televised live by CBS Sports. CBS will televise 15 games this regular season — up from 12 a year ago. Milwaukee will be featured on CBS Saturday, February 28 when they are in Chicago to take on their Central Division rivals, the Bulls.

As for the Bucks, Milwaukee premiers the 19th edition of the club at home on Saturday, November 1 against the 1986 NBA World Champion Boston Celtics. The Bucks open the 1986-87 campaign in Detroit a night earlier, October 31 and also close the season against the same Pistons, in the Arena on April 18.

The Bucks have two four-game homestands, including the last four games of the season April 11, 13, 15 and 18 against Cleveland, Chicago, Philadelphia and Detroit. The club's longest road trip of the year is an eight game, thirteen day odyssey January 20 through February 1 to Chicago, Cleveland, Denver, Los Angeles, Golden State, Houston, Dallas and San Antonio. The Bucks will endure four three-game road trips, two in November and one each in February and April.

The Thanksgiving weekend will be highlighted by two home games, Wednesday, November 26 against Washington and new Bullet Moses Malone, and Saturday, November 29 against Denver. The New Year is welcomed by the Bucks on Saturday, January 3 in the Arena against Cleveland.

Milwaukee fans will host a WTBS national cablecast audience on six occasions: December 16 vs. Philadelphia; December 30 vs. Detroit; February 16 vs. New Jersey; March 6 vs. Utah; March 17 vs. Boston; and April 13 vs. Chicago. All but the April 13 game will begin at 7 p.m. in the Arena. The Chicago game begins at the customary 7:30 p.m. weekday start time.

November and January are the Bucks busiest months, with 17 games played in each (including the October 31 tilt). The Bucks get the home court advantage in December with eight home games and just five on the road, and April with six home games and three on the road. In November and January, the Bucks have 7 home games and 10 road games in each month.

A total of nineteen Bucks home games will be played on weekend dates, either Friday nights, Saturday nights or Sunday afternoons. The Bucks have scheduled 1:30 p.m. matinees for Sunday, January 11 (Portland) and Sunday, January 18 (Atlanta).

The Los Angeles Lakers make their only Arena appearance on Wednesday, December 10 at 7:30 p.m. The Houston Rockets, defending Western Conference champions bring their Twin Towers of Ralph Sampson and Akeem Olajuwon to Milwaukee on Saturday, February 14 for a Valentine's Night feature.

The Boston Celtics defend their NBA title in the Arena on two occasions besides the home opener on November 1. They visit December 20 and on St. Patrick's Day night, March 17. The Philadelphia 76ers bring their "new look" to the Arena on December 16, March 21 and April 15. Michael Jordan and the Chicago Bulls invade Milwaukee on December 12, February 5, and April 13.

With the addition of the NBA's 23rd franchise, the Dallas Mavericks, six seasons ago, and the subsequent restructuring of the League by division and conference, the Bucks will face their eleven Eastern Conference opponents six times (except two clubs). Milwaukee will play their Western Conference rivals just twice. The home/road appearances vs. each club will be divided in half.

The Mississippi River is the dividing line separating the Eastern and Western Conferences. In order to determine which teams would play uneven amounts of games against teams within their own conference, the schedule was prepared by assigning teams within a division numbers one through five or one through six. Blind draws were held to assign a team the schedule which corresponds to the number it selected. Milwaukee drew uneven games against Washington (who will visit Milwaukee twice) while the Bucks will play in the Spectrum against the 76ers two times.

All franchises continue to play in the same city and arena they did the previous season.

The current schedule format was adopted by a vote of the NBA Board of Governors the summer of 1979. The start of the regular season was pushed back six days this season to avoid conflicts with major league baseball. The schedule is similar to that of the past six seasons when the format was designed to enhance intra-conference rivalries and save on travel expenses. The Bucks remain in the Eastern Conference for the sixth consecutive year having entered the NBA in 1968 in the East (Phoenix entered the West the same time) and switching to the Western Conference for a short period in between. There were no division realignments made for 1986-87.

NBA PLAYOFF FORMAT

A total of 16 teams qualify for the NBA Playoffs, the four division winners and the next six teams in each conference according to their won-lost record, regardless of division. The First Round is best-of-5 and each succeeding round, including the NBA World Championship Series, is best-of-7.

In every series the home-court advantage in the extra game goes to the team with the better record during the regular season, regardless of its standing in the division race. Thus, if a division winner plays a second-place team from another division that had a better record, the second-place team would get the home-court advantage.

In determining the playoff matchups, the eight qualifiers are ranked Teams 3 through 8 according to their records.* The playoff pairings for the First Round are Team 1-8, 2-7, 3-6 and 4-5 in each conference. In the Conference Semifinals, the winner of Team 1-8 plays the winner of Team 4-5 and the winner of Team 2-7 plays the winner of Team 3-6.

The World Championship Series will be played on a 2-3-2 basis, the team with the better regular-season record getting the home-court advantage for the first and last two games. Other best-of-7 series are 2-2-1-1-1.

Some portions of the playoff format were revised in June of 1983 in a vote by the NBA Board of Governors and starting with the 1984 Playoffs. The major revisions include allowance for sixteen teams qualifying for the playoffs and the elimination of the first round bye (formerly known as the best-of-3 mini-series) for division winners and inclusion of the First Round best-of-5 series.

*Note: Team 1 in each conference is the division winner with the better record, Team 2 is the other division winner and Teams 3-8 are ranked according to their regular-season winning percentage.

TIE-BREAKING PROCEDURE FOR PLAYOFFS

Following is the tie-breaking procedure that is used to determine teams qualifying for the 1987 NBA Playoffs.

Two team ties:

1. Results of games against each other.
2. Winning percentage within own conference.
3. Winning percentage within own division (only if tied teams are in same division).
4. Winning percentage against playoff opponents in own conference.
5. Point differential in games against each other.
6. Point differential between offense and defense.

Multiple team ties:

1. Cumulative winning percentage in total games involving all tied teams.
2. Winning percentage within own conference.
3. Winning percentage within own division (only if tied teams are in same division).
4. Winning percentage against playoff opponents in own conference.
5. Point differential between offense and defense.

Notes:

1. Any ties involving the championship of a division are broken first.
2. If a multiple-team tie is reduced to a two-team tie at any point using the above criteria, that situation is then resolved by using the procedures outlined for two team ties.

Magic Number:

To determine the magic number add together the total games remaining for both clubs, divide by two, and subtract the number of games one club leads another by. That figure is for a tie, add one and you get the magic number.

BROADCAST INFORMATION

Radio broadcasts of all Milwaukee Bucks home and away games are originated by WTMJ, Milwaukee's NBC radio affiliate at 620 on the AM dial. Games are fed to a statewide network of over 35 stations throughout Wisconsin.

Jim Irwin is the "Voice of the Bucks" and is joined courtside for 41 home games by Jon McGlocklin for color commentary.

The Milwaukee Bucks and WVTV-Channel 18 will televise 30 road games back to Milwaukee on WVTV-Channel 18 during the 1986-87 season. The Bucks are currently in the second year of a three year agreement with WVTV. The pact gives WVTV the rights to thirty Bucks regular season road games and as many Bucks playoff games as are available during each of the first two years of the contract. The number of regular season road telecasts and playoff games to be aired by the station during the third year of the agreement (1987-88) will be determined by the Bucks following the 1986-87 campaign. WVTV will continue to hold exclusive over-the-air television rights for Bucks games during that season.

Veteran sportscaster Jim Paschke will call the action for Channel 18 this season while Jon McGlocklin will continue to provide color commentary.

BUCKS SUMMER BASKETBALL CAMPS
Ron Blomberg — Director

After a one year absence, Ron Blomberg was back at the helm of the Milwaukee Bucks summer camp this past summer, more appreciative of basketball programs in this country.

Blomberg spent the previous year in Saudi Arabia teaching the fine points of the game of basketball and other sports to military men in the capital city of Riyadh.

"What I saw over there really made me appreciate what we have in this country," said Blomberg, who has been with the Bucks Camps for 18 years. "The experience really did a lot for me in terms of showing me the value of ahtletics in our country."

During Blomberg's absence, Jerry Sullivan, his assistant since the first Bucks camp, ran the program without a hitch. While Blomberg was gone, the camps also ran under a new sponsorship, as MacGregor Sporting Goods purchased Medalist's sport education division.

There were more than 3500 eight to 19-year-old campers in attendance last summer at the 23 segments of the camps. The overnight camps were held at Carroll College in Waukesha, Wayland Academy in Beaver Dam, University of Wisconsin — Whitewater, Knox College in Galesburg, Illinois, and Alma College in Alma, Michigan.

The day camps were held at Marquette University, Wilmot High School, Cudahy High School, and Whitefish Bay High School.

A new wrinkle last summer was a split day camp at Carroll College run by former Milwaukee Buck Jon McGlocklin. At this camp 4th-6th graders would attend the camp in the morning and 7th-9th graders would attend the camp in the afternoon.

Guest appearances at the camps this year included Milwaukee Bucks Paul Mokeski, Randy Breuer, and Craig Hodges; new Bucks' assistant coach Rick Majerus; Portland Trailblazer guard and former UW —Stevens Point star Terry Porter; Atlanta Hawk guard and former Marquette Warrior star Glen "Doc" Rivers; and Chicago Bulls' assistant coach and former NBA player Billy McKinney.

According to Blomberg, the players who attend the camps are placed into their age groups and assigned to a team with a specific coach. Each day there is a specific theme to be taught, such as dribbling, passing or shooting. First, there is a lecture on that specific theme, then instructional drills, and finally games in the late afternoon and evening.

"Our goal is to help each camper reach his potential," Blomberg said. "We know that kids that come to our camp probably will not make the pro level or the college level and they might not even make their high school team.

"All we want is for them to become a better athlete. We have experienced coaches teaching them. The theme of our camps which we preach to our staff is that, 'these camps are for the kids.' "

According to Blomberg, the thing that helps set these camps apart from others is the experienced coaches at the camps and the way they approach their job.

"At other camps, the only reason the coaches are there is to recruit players," he said. "But, that's not the case here. Our coaches are concerned with teaching the campers and helping to make them better players.

"After each session each camper is mailed an evaluation of their performance at the camp by their coach, measuring what that player needs to do to improve their overall game."

For parents or children who are interested in the Bucks basketball camps, the phone numbers to get information on specific camps are 786-0366 in the Milwaukee area and 1-800-633-2823 outside the Metroplan region.

When NBA players refer to "P.T." they're talking about playing time. These players have seen the "least" amount of action while in a Bucks uniform: Delmer Beshore (one minute in one game), Linton Townes (two minutes in two games), Mark West (six minutes in one game), Brad Holland (nine minutes in one game), and Bob Rule (11 minutes in one game).

MILWAUKEE BUCKS FILM LIBRARY AND SPEAKERS BUREAU

The Milwaukee Bucks have an extensive film library available for your school, church, civic or special interest group. Topics of the films range from highlight films of the Bucks, All-Star game highlights and the NBA World Championship Playoff highlights.

The Milwaukee Bucks speakers bureau has front office personnel, members of the coaching staff and players available for speaking engagements. The availability of a coach or player depends upon team commitments pertaining to games and practice schedules. There is a minimum fee of $250 for a player or coach. For complete information contact the Bucks at 414/272-6030.

If you'd like to have a film for a presentation at your school or meeting, simply drop a line on your group's letterhead to Bill King II, Publicity Director, Milwaukee Bucks, 901 North Fourth Street, Milwaukee, WI 53203. The letter should request the film or films (maximum of two (2) films at one time) with alternate choices and a preferred date for viewing along with a backup date. A deposit check payable to the Milwaukee Bucks in the amount of $25 for each film should be included with the letter. The check will be returned upon receipt of the film or films in good condition. All films are 16 mm with full color and sound. The projector and screen are not included. Films must be picked up and returned to the Bucks' office at 901 North Fourth Street, Milwaukee, WI unless other arrangements are made. Requests must be made a minimum of two weeks in advance. The Bucks have the following films available in their library:

- "JUST THE BEGINNING" — as the title indicates, this film covers the premiere edition of the Milwaukee franchise in the NBA. Narrated by Eddie Doucette. Approximately 30 minutes.

- "COCAINE DRAIN" — Produced by the NBA Players Association for its members. The piece discusses the perils of cocaine use with ex-players and entertainers. Available on VHS or 3/4" videotape only.

NELLIE'S FARM FUND A REAL BARN BURNER

By Mike Nelson

Don Nelson was a breath of fresh air for the economically distressed family farming industry in Wisconsin this past summer. Nellie's Farm Fund collected nearly half a million dollars in five months, thanks mostly to Nelson's fulltime devotion to personally administering this major league charity drive.

This incredible story began in May, when Nelson received a letter from a troubled farmer in Birnamwood, Wisconsin. The note from a desperate farmer, his wife and their 11 children got Nelson thinking about the troubles of the life-long Central Wisconsin farmers as well as the family farming business in general. But also specifically, as Nelson read the farmer's letter, he reflected back to his childhood days spent on his grandparents', financially-strapped farm in Rock Island, Illinois. It was on a barn yard there that Nelson's love for tossing a ball through a bottomless bushel basket was born. Young Nellie also learned how emotionally trying it can be when a family's very livelihood is taken away by hard economic times.

But those were days almost forgotten by Nelson, who left the farm and went on to do great things on flashy hardwood courts as an accomplished basketball player and now coach. He has been an intense student and teacher of the game for the last 28 years, and as even only casual NBA observers will note, Nelson is always completely determined to find ways to win as he prowls the sidelines these days.

That type of obsession with basketball hasn't always been good for the man who has twice been named the NBA's Coach of the Year, and he'll be the first to admit it.

After the 1983-84 season, Nelson gave serious thought to retiring. He was almost burned out. It took almost a full summer of soul-searching to come up with the drive to want to push on at that time. Following last year's playoffs, he may have been equally drained.

Here is a coach, with a team that has been one of the league's most consistently good teams, that has never been the best under his coaching reign. Philadelphia has been the biggest thorn in his side. (The Sixers have knocked the Bucks out of the playoffs in four of the past six seasons.) This time around the Bucks were the favorites, and most fans and critics said, "You'd better not blow your big chance to get rid of the Philly jinx." Then Sidney Moncrief was hurt, Charles Barkley went nuts offensively and all of a sudden it's back to a "Don't try biting your nails, because you've already chewed them off" seventh game showdown where anything can happen. Dr. J missed a wide open jumper that you would have sworn was going in. Bango! You've won the biggest game in your coaching career. The party ended in a hurry through, as the Bucks ran into a buzzsaw, also known as the Boston Celtics. A few agonizing days and four painful games later, you've finished your ride on an emotional yo-yo and the season is over.

NBA coaches, including Nelson, accept that they're only remembered for their last performance, so there was a feeling of emptiness for the leader of the Bucks, even though he put out one of his best overall coaching efforts during the season.

The time had come for Nellie to go back to the drawing board. He cleverly acquired Jack Sikma and Scott Skiles, and all of a sudden he felt good about his team again. The hope is restored that someday soon he will win a championship. But still something was missing for Nelson, a man always yearning to be on the go.

He had been working with lawyers and advisers, looking for a way to help the farming family, when he asked himself, "Couldn't I be doing more to help out the farmers of Wisconsin?" Of course he decided the answer to his question was an emphatic "Yes!"

Nelson enlisted the services of Diversified Management, Inc. of Madison to help him search for family farms that could be saved with a combination of dollars and management advice. Within a few weeks, Nellie's Farm Fund had found dozens of farms that were close to being foreclosed, yet might still be saved.

Now it was time to start raising money.

With the help of team President Herb Kohl and the rest of the Bucks organization, Nellie created four major fund-raising projects for the summer.

The first was a July 28 exhibition game between the Bucks summer rookies and free-agents and a squad of former Central Wisconsin college all-stars, put together by Portland Trail Blazer Terry Porter, a native of Milwaukee and a graduate of the University of Wisconsin — Stevens Point. The game was played before a sell-out crowd of 3,902 at the Quandt Fieldhouse in Stevens Point and also featured performances by Glenn "Doc" Rivers of the Atlanta Hawks and Randy Breuer, who both helped strengthen the all-stars' lineup. Ticket sales generated $25,000 for the Farm Fund.

Next was Nellie's Miller Lite Tractor Drive, a nine day trip taken by Nelson across the heart of Wisconsin's farm country. The drive received national media attention, mostly because Nelson made the entire trip by driving a Case I.H. farm tractor and pulling a Gehl wagon with a nine foot long and five foot high "piggy bank", which was jokingly named Barkley, after that big nightmare of a power forward from Philadelphia. Incidentally, the Sixers' #34 was actually flattered by Nelson's idea. The 250 mile-plus route included stops in Menomonee Falls, West Bend, Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Appleton, Green Bay, Shawano, Birnamwood and Wausau, the trip's end point and host city for "Nelliefest 1986," a rally to support the Farm Fund. The 1986," a rally to support the Farm Fund. The tractorcade raised roughly $230,000.

Immediately following the conclusion of the tractor drive, Nelson returned to Milwaukee for a statewide television telethon, which originated from WTMJ-TV in Milwaukee on August 17. The two-hour broadcast chronicled the charity's quick rise to the $400,000 mark.

Finally, Nelson went on a diet and asked for people to make a pledge for each pound he could lose by the end of the summer. As a nervous eater during the basketball season, Nellie had ballooned up to 272 pounds. But as a man on a mission he gave up burgers and fries for raw carrots and skim milk. Fifty pounds is a lot of weight to lose in one summer, but Nellie shed it and the Farm Fund picked up nearly $100,000.

Nelson and a Farm Fund Board of Directors are now in the process of allocating grants and loans to needy farmers in Wisconsin. Of course, Nellie realized going in that he wouldn't be able to save every troubled family farm in the state. (Nationally, a farm goes out of business every six minutes.) But, Don Nelson has made a difference, both with the dollars he raised and with the greater public awareness of the current farm crisis situation he brought about because of his unique willingness to tackle such an ambitious project.

Running Nellie's Farm Fund was a lot of work, but it wound up recharging Nelson's batteries again. He said, "The giver is always the receiver, and I've gotten more than anyone who gave to or will be helped by the Farm Fund. It was the most beautiful experience I've ever had."

Nelson continued, "I plan to make this an annual summertime project. Next time we will branch out into other fund-raising activities and visit different parts of the state on Nellie's Tractor Drive, Part Two."

The focus of Nelson's attention is now back on his beloved Milwaukee Bucks. But come next summer, watch for the heart of this giant of a man to come out again. He may or may not have coached the best team in the NBA during the 1986-87 season, but there is no doubt that Don Nelson will long be remembered as a champion to the farming people of Wisconsin.

FAMOUS FIRSTS IN BUCK HISTORY

FIRST GAME — On October 16, 1968 the Milwaukee Bucks played their first NBA game against Chicago. The Bucks were defeated 89-84 before a Milwaukee Arena crowd of 8,467. Guy Rodgers led the Bucks in scoring with 16 points.

FIRST WIN — After losing the first five games, Milwaukee responded with a 134-118 victory over Detroit at the Arena for the first win ever on October 31, 1968. Wayne Embry led the Bucks in scoring with 30 points —the first player in history to score 30 for Milwaukee.

FIRST ROAD WIN — Milwaukee's first victory on the road came on the twelfth try at San Francisco. The Bucks won 107-101 with Fred Hetzel pumping in 22 points on November 30, 1968.

FIRST SELLOUT — On February 27, 1969 the Milwaukee Bucks played before a capacity crowd at the Arena for the first time. 10,746 fans jammed the Arena to witness a 126-117 victory over Baltimore. Flynn Robinson led the way with 35 points.

FIRST WINNING SEASON — In only their second year of existence the Bucks won 56 while losing only 26.

FIRST PLAYOFF GAME — March 25, 1970. The Bucks defeated the Philadelphia 76ers at Madison 125-118 in the team's first playoff action ever. Lew Alcindor scored 36 points in the opening victory. Milwaukee went on to win the series 4 games to 1. However, they fell to the eventual NBA Champions, the New York Knickerbockers in five games.

FIRST NBA CHAMPIONSHIP — The Milwaukee Bucks had gone further, faster than any expansion team in the history of professional sports in their third season of play. In 1970-71 the Bucks won 66 and lost 16 in the regular season then went on to become the NBA Champions. They defeated Baltimore in four games in the finals.

FIRST MVP AWARD — Lew Alcindor was named the NBA's MVP following the 1970-71 season. The first Buck to win the award led the League in scoring with a 31.7 average.

FIRST DRAFT CHOICE — In the 1968 College Draft, the Bucks named Charlie Paulk of Northeastern State (Oklahoma) their first draft pick of all-time.

FIRST THREE POINT SHOT — Brian Winters canned the first three point shot for the Milwaukee Bucks on October 25, 1979. Milwaukee defeated the Clippers at San Diego 118-115 in the contest.

MECCA'S GEOMETRIC COURT
Designed by Robert Indiana

The design on the court you see before you was developed by Robert Indiana. Indiana has said of himself, "I am an American painter of signs charting the course. I would be a people's painter as well as a painter's painter."

Succinctly he has explained his aims, and at the same time the reasons for his success, of which there can be no doubt. Since his first art show in 1960, Mr. Indiana's art has been seen and acclaimed internationally. The floor design along with LeRoy Nieman's "Basketball Superstars" painting for the 1977 All-Star Game in Milwaukee is the second major piece of art nationally recognized to have originated from Milwaukee.

Robert Indiana has established a lasting reputation as an artist who paints America. He paints about his country, its people, and about himself; as well as about the traditions and cultures we all know. Because his art speaks of the nature of our land and the American people, Robert Indiana is destined to be among the great American masters such as Winslow Homer, Thomas Eakins, and Edward Hooper.

Indiana is one of the leaders of the Pop Art movement of the 1960's and 70's. The trademarks of his art are the lettered signs, directional symbols, commercial illustrations, precise shapes, and intensely active colors. His art has been referred to as American as apple pie. He deals with signs of life in both vocabulary and form. Like highway signs, his paintings are geometric shapes with bright, bold numbers and letters upon them. LOVE is perhaps his most famous series of paintings.

Claiming the same hometown as former Buck Kent Benson in New Castle, Indiana, Mr. Indiana's works are on display across the country, in such institutions as the Carnegie Institute of Arts in Pittsburgh, the Chicago Museum of Contemporary Art, the Metroplitan Museum of Art in New York City, Yale and Princeton Universities, and the Milwaukee Art Center. Previously Indiana has been commissioned to redesign the U.S. one cent piece by ART IN AMERICA, to create a mural for the New York State Pavilion at the New York World's Fair, and by the United States Government to design a Special Stamp for Someone Special in the denomination of 8 cents and issued originally in Philadelphia in 1973 to name a few prominent works.

The court itself is the same that has been in use during past seasons. Before being painted, it was completely refinished and sealed. Indiana signed the court of the southwest corner with a can of spray paint and a specially prepared stencil. Mr. Indiana also designed the banners that hang above the upper parquet around the Arena. The colors will also be picked up in the outer lobbies as MECCA plans to refurbish those facilities. Total cost of the project approaches $40,000 with a portion of that to be recouped by the sale of banners and posters similar to those in the Arena.

BUCKS HISTORY

Kareem and Commissioner Kennedy

On October 16, 1968, before a crowd of 8,467 at the Milwaukee Arena, the Milwaukee Bucks made their National Basketball Association debut. The Chicago Bulls, however, won 89-84. The Bucks first win came in their sixth game, a 134-118 victory over Detroit on October 31, 1968. The Bucks went on to win 27 games and lose 55 in their first season, but set a home attendance record for a first year team, averaging 6,246 fans at the Arena. Guard Jon McGlocklin led the team in scoring with a 19.6 average; forward Greg Smith was the leading rebounder, and guard Guy Rodgers was the playmaker.

The Bucks last place finish in the East Division and the last place finish in the West by the other expansion team, the Phoenix Suns, qualified the two teams for a coin flip to determine rights to the number one choice in the college draft. On March 19, 1969, NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy flipped the coin. Phoenix chose heads, the coin came up tails, and on April 2, 1969 the Bucks signed 7-2 Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of UCLA. (nee Lew Alcindor).

Abdul-Jabbar became an instant superstar, teaming with McGlocklin, Smith, rookie Bob Dandridge and Flynn Robinson in leading the Bucks from the cellar spot to a runner-up place in the East. The Bucks won 56 and lost 26 that year and then defeated the Philadelphia 76ers in five games. 360,650 fans watched the Bucks at the Milwaukee Arena, an average of 9,490 per game. Following the season, the Bucks made ther biggest trade —getting All-Pro Guard Oscar Robertson from Cincinnati for Flynn Robinson and Charlie Paulk. Just prior to the start of the 1970-71 season, Bob Boozer and Lucius Allen were acquired from Seattle for Don Smith.

With Kareem, Robertson, McGlocklin, Dandridge and Smith forming the starting five and Boozer, Allen and Dick Cunningham providing backup, the Bucks ran away with the Midwest Division in the newly aligned four division league setup. The Bucks won 66 and lost only 16 games, in the process setting six league records; home wins, 34; road wins, 28; field goal percentage, .509; field goals, 3972; and assists, 2249. In playoff competition the Bucks dispatched San Francisco and Los Angeles in five game series and then blasted Baltimore four straight for the World's Championship, only the second time in league history that the title series ended so quickly. In winning the World's Championship, the Bucks had come further, faster, than any expansion team in the history of major professional sports.

Abdul-Jabbar

In 1971-72 the Bucks made the playoffs for the third straight year, winning the Midwest Division for the second year in a row. The Bucks elevated Wayne Embry to the general manager post and named William Alverson, a legal advisor to the club since its beginning, president in March, 1972.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar earned the league's MVP honor for the second straight year, averaging 34.8 points per game and leading the NBA in that department. The Bucks found defense of their World Championship title difficult. The Bucks disposed of Golden State in five games. The "super series" for the Western Conference championship matched the Bucks against the Los Angeles Lakers, a contingent that had run a 33-game winning streak during the season before being derailed by the Bucks on January 9. The Bucks battled the Lakers in six exciting games before falling four games to two.

The Bucks completed the 1972-73 season with a 60-22 record, the only NBA team in history to post sixty or more wins in three consecutive seasons. The sixty wins were posted despite an unusual season which found the Bucks plagued by injuries. Coach Larry Costello had his full roster available for barely more than half of the 82 game schedule. The Bucks finished the year with an NBA record of 14 straight victories to end the season, and entered the first round of the playoffs against Golden State. Possibly wearied by the whirlwind of winning the 14 games and the final race with the Lakers for the Western Conference title, the Bucks were surprised by a deep Golden State team, and fell 4-2 in the opening round.

Kareem and Big O

The Bucks were one game short of their fourth consecutive season with 60 regular season wins or more in 1973-74, finishing the season with a 59-23 record. Numerous injuries during the season often put the Bucks in a manpower shortage situation, but the club rallied to offset the absence of various players at different times of the year. The most serious injury sidelined Lucius Allen for the last few games of the season and all of the playoffs. Allen tore a cartilage in his knee in a game March 15 in Detroit, and underwent surgery the following day. The Bucks again topped the Midwest Division and eliminated Los Angeles 4-1 in the playoffs and dispatched Chicago without delay 4-0. In the championship round against Boston, the Bucks faced a troublesome press that continually dogged their game. The series was highlighted by a double-overtime sixth game which the Bucks won in Boston, to knot the series at 3-3. In the NBA Championship round's final seventh game, the Bucks were defeated by the Celts 102-87.

In 1974-75 the Bucks endured what might have been their most frustrating season on record. A pre-season broken hand kept Kareem Abdul-Jabbar sidelined for the first sixteen games of the season and the club was 3-13, putting themselves too far behind Midwest Division rivals to ever recover. A mid-season knee injury to All-Star guard Jim Price sidelined him for the last half of the season. Kareem, Price and Bob Dandridge were named to the All-Star team, the first time in club history that three members had been named to the honor squad. Although the Costello trademark of defense was upheld (the club's allowance of 100.7 points per game was the fifth best in the league), their 38-44 record put them in last place in the Midwest Division. The club's longest winning streak of the year was five games, and the team stayed in contention for the wild card playoff berth until the last week of the season. The Bucks lost 18 games during this fretful year by five points or less, and 11 of those losses were by three points or fewer. Kareem was third in the NBA in scoring while Bob Dandridge finished 18th with a 19.9 point per game clip.

On June 16, 1975 the Bucks executed one of the most momentous trades in pro basketball history by sending Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and reserve center Walt Wesley to the Los Angeles Lakers in exchange for center Elmore Smith, guard Brian Winters, and two All-American rookies, David Meyers and Junior Bridgeman. The Milwaukee Bucks entered the 1975-76 season with a new, young running team, perhaps the youngest in the NBA.

The young talent faltered at first, losing the first five games of the season before posting a win over Detroit on November 4, 1975. As the season progressed, all four players obtained from Los Angeles for Abdul-Jabbar proved to make important contributions. Smith became a consistent performer at center, leading the team in rebounding during the season with a 11.4 per game average. Brian Winters put his marksmanship to work to average over 18 points per game and make the NBA West All Stars. Winters started in all 78 games he played. Bridgeman played both guard and forward well, started in 19 games and averaged over 20 minutes per game. Meyers showed outstanding rebounding potential, banging the boards hard in 34 starts at the strong forward slot. Slowed by a knee injury, he rallied to have an outstanding playoff series against Detroit.

The Bucks posted a 38-44 record in 1975-76, identical to that achieved by the Los Angeles Lakers and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. Bob Dandridge was named to the NBA West All Stars and had his best season ever, averaging 21.5 points per game while ranking among the top ten scorers in the league. The Bucks finished first in the Midwest Division for the fifth time in eight seasons. The Milwaukeeans were beat in the first round of the best-of-three playoff series 2-1 by Detroit. Coach Larry Costello signed a new two year pact just prior to the playoffs. In the 1976 college draft the Bucks selected Indiana All American and U.S. Olympian Quinn Buckner in the first round.

Bob Dandridge

The 1976-77 season saw a major shakeup within the organization. Just 18 games into the season Larry Costello resigned as Head Coach and Don Nelson took over the reigns. Other changes came about involving the club's management structure. A group headed by James F. Fitzgerald, William J. Blake and J. P. Cullen and Son Corporation purchased 361,000 outstanding shares of Milwaukee Professional Sports and Services common stock. Mr. Fitzgerald became Chairman of the Board and President of the corporation. Wayne Embry, formerly General Manager of the club, became a consultant thus relinquishing his duties on a day-to-day basis. What were formerly Embry's duties were then split between Don Nelson who handled player personnel matters and John Steinmiller who was promoted to Director of Business Operations in charge of the day-to-day functions of the club. On the court Bob Dandridge turned in a solid performance averaging 20.8 points over the season. Brian Winters and Junior Bridgeman also averaged in double figures as did Swen Nater who was traded to Cleveland which gave Milwaukee the first round draft choice they used to obtain Marques Johnson. Record-wise the 1976-77 season was a meager 30 wins against 52 losses. But to offset that mark was perhaps the best draft by any professional team in history. Behind the direction of Rick Sund, Don Nelson, and Wayne Embry the club drafted and subsequently signed three first round choices in Kent Benson, Marques Johnson, and Ernie Grunfeld. John Killilea, once a scout for the Bucks and more recently assistant coach of the Boston Celtics, joined Don Nelson in the coaching ranks as Assistant Coach and assistant Director of Player Personnel.

The 1977-78 season parlayed an exceptional draft of Benson, Johnson, and Grunfeld along with veterans Bridgeman, Buckner, Meyers, and Winters into an exciting season for a young team that as of yet did not have valuable playoff experience. Milwaukee finished the regular season with a 44-38 record. The fate of the playoff hopeful Bucks hinged upon Seattle beating Golden State on the final game of the 902 game NBA regular season schedule. The scene was a frustrating one for the Bucks as players, coaches, and fans alike stood anxiously by listening to the radio for a special play-by-play feed of the Sonics-Warriors game. Everyone felt helpless as their fate rested with a game they weren't playing. Seattle defeated Golden State sending the Bucks to pack the bathing suits to head for Phoenix. Milwaukee swept the Suns 2-0 in the mini-series advancing to the Midwest Division final. It took Denver a tough seven games and the home court advantage to defeat Milwaukee and end a championship dream for the "Green and Growing" Bucks.

The image the Bucks created that year was one of youth and hope. The first full season under Don Nelson saw some changes, not all of which were on the court. The Bucks adopted their new familiar three-toned green striping on their uniforms and other paraphenalia, came out with a 45 record entitled Green and Growing, and numerous other exciting concepts. The result of all this could be felt at the gate where the Bucks averaged 10,711. 15 fans (.97012%) to top their all time attendance records. Also that year the Bucks set an all time NBA record winning eight overtime games.

In the next season, 1978-79, everyone expected Milwaukee to surpass their successes of the previous year. What with the core of the 1977-78 team intact, it was an easy assumption to make. But before the season began a vital cog on the Bucks club was lost. Alex English went to the Indiana Pacers via the free agent market. Then Dave Meyers was lost for all 82 games of the regular season due to a back injury. Those losses coupled with a few key injuries, saw the Bucks reversing their 44-38 record of the previous year to 38-44 and missing a playoff berth.

There were some bright spots however. Marques Johnson was named to the NBA All-Star team receiving more fan votes than any other player in the Western Conference. Later, Johnson was named to the NBA All-League team as a first team forward. Marques finished third in the NBA in scoring with a 25.6 average which was highest among all forwards and centers in the league. Junior Bridgeman finished the season with a 15.5 average, tops among all regular sixth men in the league. Kent Benson improved greatly over his rookie campaign while Brian Winters had his best scoring season ever. The Bucks 38-44 record placed them tied at third with Indiana in the Midwest Division. The club came on strong towards the end and won 16 of their last 26 games (.615%) including 6 wins in their last 9 road games. Milwaukee also shattered the NBA assist record with 2,562 on the year for a 31.2 average. The total attendance mark of 443,926 broke all the records set one season before. The marks include 32 sellouts, an average of 10,827, and a capacity of 99%.

The Bucks rebounded with another Midwest Divison title during the 1979-80 campaign, posting a 49-33 record to squeeze out the Kansas City Kings by two games. The title qualified Milwaukee for its eighth playoff appearance in the club's twelve-year history. It was a season of highs and lows as the Bucks sprinted to an early lead with an NBA high of ten consecutive victories only to lose six straight in December to close the cushion. Compounding the losing skid was the sidelining of Quinn Buckner with a recurring hamstring problem. By January the division lead swayed to Kansas City.

The All-Star break, highlighted by Marques Johnson's second straight starting role for the West squad, marked a turnaround for Milwaukee as Detroit dealt big Bob Lanier to the Bucks for Kent Benson and a number one draft choice. Lanier's inside scoring punch combined with Marques Johnson's outside touch vaulted the club into the winner's circle in 11 of the next 13 contests. All tolled, the club went 20-6 following the break and reclaimed the division lead for good in mid-March. Defense played a major role in that comeback, forcing the second place Kings into an NBA season low 72 points February 24 and Golden State into a League low third quarter total of 10 points March 8.

Milwaukee drew defending champion Seattle in the playoffs, eventually falling in the seventh and final contest at the Kingdome. The series was marked by an NBA record crowd (40,172) in Game #5 and a Bucks' record-low first half point production (35) in Game #6. Games #1 and #2 were both highlighted by overtime play, the clubs each taking one contest. Seattle went on to play the eventual NBA champion Los Angeles Lakers for the Western Conference Championship.

The Bucks finished the 1980-81 season with a 60-22 record to become the 19th team in the history of the NBA to reach the magical 60 win plateau. It marked the fourth time in 13 seasons the club won 60 or more games. That record was attained by matching the club record for home court wins set during the championship year of 1970-71 with a 34-7 mark. On the road the club posted a 25-16 record, the best in eight seasons by Milwaukee and second to Boston in 1980-81. Also, Milwaukee became the 17th team in NBA history to lose no more than two games consecutively. Streaks were common for the team during the season. They ran off 10 in a row early in the season, 11 straight road games, and 16 in a row in the Arena. Also on the numbers front, the Bucks averaged 113.1 ppg — tops in the Eastern Conference —and allowed 105.9 ppg for an average margin of victory of 7.2 points per game. By virtue of their 60-22 record, the Bucks ran away with the Central Division title while earning a first round playoff bye.

Philadelphia earned the right to meet Milwaukee in the playoffs. For the Bucks it proved to be a virtual replay of previous playoff series under the Nelson regime. The club again was without the home court advantage and lost in the seventh game of the series to Philadelphia in the Spectrum by one point.

The Bucks captured their third straight division title ending the 1981-82 season with a 55-27 mark to top the Central Division. It marked the second straight Central Division title and third consecutive division title. It was also the second straight year Milwaukee posted the largest season-ending division lead in the NBA (13 games). To have such a successful season, Milwaukee had to overcome such adversities as an 18 game holdout by All-Star Marques Johnson at the start of the season and weather the storm of 114 player games missed due to injury necessitating 15 different starting lineups. Sidney Moncrief was unwrapped and his performance landed him a berth on the All-Star squad. Center Bob Lanier played in all but eight games and recorded more minutes played than all but two teammates. He too was named to the All-Star squad. Statistically, Milwaukee's 5.5 ppg winning margin ranked third in the League, 102.9 points defensively was 4th in the NBA, .505 team FG% was second best of any Milwaukee team, and a mid-season skein of 12 straight set a then NBA season mark.

Again Philadelphia earned the right to meet Milwaukee in the playoffs, but his time the short-handed Bucks succumbed to the Sixers in six games. Philadelphia went on to win the Eastern Conference championship before losing to the Los Angeles Lakers for the NBA title.

A fourth straight division title and four game sweep over the Boston Celtics highlighted the 1982-83 season for Milwaukee. Although injuries created a lot of shuffling of lineups, NBA Coach of the Year Don Nelson guided the team to a 51-31 record. Sidney Moncrief was named the NBA Defensive Player of the Year and also to the All-League team while leading the club with a 22.5 scoring average. Teammate Marques Johnson, named to the All-Star team along with Moncrief, was a big plus for the Bucks, hitting for 1,714 points to lead the team. Winning 31 of 41 home games, Milwaukee ranked fourth in the League defensively yielding 102.2 ppg. The club hit .489% from the floor and .753% from the line. The Bucks set a franchise record blocking 532 opponents' shots and committed an all-time low 1,421 turnovers on the season. Due to the record low number of Milwaukee turnovers, a new opponent's season low for steals of 623 was established.

After the sweep over Boston, Milwaukee faced eventual NBA Champions Philadelphia in the finals of the Eastern Conference playoffs. The Bucks could only take one win from the 76ers but that was the lone loss suffered by Philly in the playoffs. Johnson again led the way during the second season averaging 22 points per contest.

Once again and for the fifth consecutive season the Bucks won their division in 1983-84 while making the NBA's final four for the second straight year. Milwaukee finished the regular season 50-32 for their fourth 50+ win season in a row. Teamwise the Bucks led the League in defense allowing just 101.5 ppg while also leading the League in defensive field goal percentage (.456%). The club also set a new low water mark for turnovers (1,385 or 16.9 per game). Notable high was the 35,047 fans in the Detroit Silverdome for March 31 game with Pistons to set an NBA record for the largest regular season crowd in history.

Individually Sidney Moncrief was an NBA All-Star for the third time, was named to the Second Team All-League, the All-Defensive First Team, and was the Defensive Player of the Year for the second straight season since the inception of the award. Junior Bridgeman moved into first spot on the all-time games played list and Marques Johnson scored his 10,000th point in front of a national CBS audience.

Under the expanded playoff format the Bucks were pushed to five games before defeating Atlanta in the opening series, beat New Jersey 4-2 in the conference semi-finals, and lost to the Boston Celtics 4-1 in the Eastern Conference Finals.

The Bucks won their sixth consecutive division crown during the 1984-85 campaign by posting a 59-23 record and finishing more than a dozen games in front of runner-up Detroit. For the fifth straight season the Bucks ended with at least 50 victories while averaging 55 wins per outing over that five year span.

With Sidney Moncrief and Paul Pressey as its backbone, the Milwaukee defense led the League for the second time in a row. The Bucks allowed just 104 ppg, while scoring almost 111 themselves. The Bucks set a new club standard for home wins by recording a stellar 36-5 mark.

In the opening round of the playoffs, the Bucks defeated the upstart Chicago Bulls 3-1. Things didn't go quite as well in the Eastern Conference Semifinals where the Phildelphia 76ers swept the Bucks in four straight contests.

Major individual honors went to Cummings, Moncrief, Pressey, and Coach Don Nelson. Cummings and Moncrief were named to the mid-season All-Star classic as reserves and to the 1985 All-League Second Team. Moncrief and Pressey were named to the 1985 All-Defensive First Team, and Nelson won the 1985 NBA Coach of the Year award for the second time in three seasons.

The Bucks notched their sixth straight Central Division title, and seventh straight division crown in 1985-86 by virtue of a 57-25 slate, finishing a comfortable seven games in front of Atlanta. The Bucks string of seven division crowns is the second best in NBA history, trailing only Boston's run of nine consecutive from 1956-57 to 1964-65.

The Bucks highly respected defense, paced by All-Defensive First Team selections Sidney Moncrief and Paul Pressey, was second in the League in defensive field goal percentage at .467% and fifth in fewest points allowed at 105.5 per game. The Bucks also possessed a high-powered offensive, ranking fifth in the NBA with 114.5 points per outing. The Bucks posted a winning margin of 9.0 markers a game placing them second in the League.

Milwaukee set team records for free throws made (2,063) and attempted (2,701) in a season, while also lowering the team mark for turnovers for the third straight season with just 1,369 bobbles. The Bucks set a single game record for field goal percentage when they scorched the nets at .667% in a rout of Sacramento, 140-82, on December 15, 1985.

The Bucks advanced to the Eastern Conference finals for the third time in four years by trouncing New Jersey, 3-0, and edging Philadelphia, 4-3. Boston derailed the Bucks at that point, sweeping Milwaukee in four straight and going on to the NBA title.

Individually, Moncrief was named to the All-Star squad for the fifth straight time, including his second appearance as a starter. Craig Hodges picked up some national attention by winning the three-point field goal percentage title in the final game of the regular season. His league-leading percentage of .451% was the best since the NBA adopted the bonus shot in the 1979-80 season.

BUCKS FRANCHISE RECORDS VICTORY #900

With the matter of their seventh straight division title and the second seed in the Eastern Conference wrapped up, the Bucks turned their attention to picking up victory #900 late in the 1985-86 season. Milwaukee accomplished that feat in the final game of the season and did it with style by routing the Knicks, 116-78, to mark the lowest point total for a Bucks' foe on the season. Milwaukee reached the 900 win plateau in just 18 seasons, meaning the Bucks have averaged an envious and remarkable 50 victories a season.

MONTH BY MONTH — BUCKS ARE CONSISTENT

The Milwaukee Bucks have played 43 consecutive months of winning basketball through April of 1986. The streak started in February of the 1979-80 campaign. The mark is second only to Boston's streak of 47, which coincides with Larry Bird coming on the Celtic scene. Milwaukee's streak roughly coincides with Sidney Moncrief's arrival, as the Bucks have played just two sub .500 months with Sid on the squad (both in his rookie year).

1977-78 — Milwaukee finishes second to Denver in the Midwest at 44-38. Western Conference First Round: The Bucks surprise the favored Phoenix Suns and sweep a miniseries 2-0. Conference Semifinal: The Bucks run up against Midwest Division champ Denver and lose an exciting and hard fought series 4-3.

1979-80 — The Bucks top the Midwest Division with a 49-33 mark and get a bye in the first round of the playoffs. Conference Semifinals: Bucks meet the Supersonics who had nipped the Portland Trail Blazers 2-1 in the first round, and lose a tough, rough seven game series 4-3.

1980-81 — Bucks shift to the Eastern Conference and the Central Division and top that group with a 60-22 mark to receive a bye in the first round. Philadelphia beats Indiana 2-0 for the right to face Milwaukee in the semis. Lose to Philly 4-3 in hard fought series.

1981-82 — The Bucks top the Central Division for the second straight year posting a 55-27 record, have a bye in the first round and then meet the Philadelphia 76ers who had beaten Atlanta 2-0 in the miniseries. Conference Semifinals: Milwaukee loses to the Sixers 4-2.

1982-83 — For the third consecutive year the Bucks are kingpins of the Central Division while winning their fourth overall division crown. Regular season record of 51-31 earns the club a first round bye and time to prepare for the Boston Celtics who were eliminating Atlanta in the mini-series. Milwaukee swept Boston in four straight for the right to play eventual champion Philadelphia in the Eastern Conference finals. Bucks managed just one win in five outings vs. the Sixers but it was an accomplishment in itself as Milwaukee was the only club in the playoffs to beat Philly whose overall playoff record was 12-1.

1983-84 — Once again and for the fifth consecutive season the Bucks win their division (four in a row in the Central) while making the NBA's final four for the second straight year. Regular season record of 50-32 didn't earn a bye as they were eliminated under the expanded playoff format. Bucks defeated Atlanta 3-2 in the opening round while New Jersey was surprising defending champion Philadelphia winning all three games on the Sixers court. Milwaukee beat the Nets 4-2 and gained the Eastern Conference finals vs. Boston where they lost out 4-1. The Celtics went on to win the NBA title. Boston defeated Washington and New York before meeting up with Milwaukee.

1984-85 — The Central Division title was captured by the Bucks for the fifth straight year making the club division title holders for six consecutive seasons. Taking a 59-23 regular season mark into the playoffs, the Bucks defeated division foe Chicago 3-1. Milwaukee was blind-sided in the next round of playoffs by the Philadelphia 76ers. The Bucks succumbed to the Sixers in four straight contests marking the only time the Bucks have been swept in the playoffs.

1985-86 — Milwaukee notched it's sixth straight Central Division title and seventh straight division crown by virtue of a 57-25 slate. The Bucks advanced to the Eastern Conference finals for the third time in four years by trouncing New Jersey, 3-0 and edging Philadelphia in the Eastern Conference finals, 4-3. Boston derailed the Bucks at that point, sweeping Milwaukee in four straight and going on to the NBA title.

Four Numbers Honor Four Greats

They haven't played in the NBA for several years, but their retired numbers hang prominently on the Milwaukee Arena's north wall.

The playing days of Oscar Robertson (No. 1), Bob Lanier (16), Jon McGlocklin (14) and Brian Winters (32) may be over, but none of the above have exactly taken to the rocking chairs.

The Bucks' honored retirees are active in the business world and still find time for basketball in a variety of ways.

Robertson — "the Big O" — runs a chemical company in Cincinnati. The first Buck to have his number retired, Robertson teamed with Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, McGlocklin, Bob Dandridge and Greg Smith, along with Lucius Allen, Bob Boozer and Dick Cunningham in reserve, to lead the Bucks to the NBA championship in 1970-71.

One of the great all-time guards, Robertson scored more points (26,710), had more assists (9,987), sank more free throws (7,964) and played in more games (1,035) than any other guard in the history of pro basketball.

He earned the NBA All-Star MVP award three times, the overall regular season MVP trophy in 1964 and was Rookie of the Year in 1961. He made the All-Star team 11 times.

Twice the Collegiate Player of the Year at the University of Cincinnati, Oscar started his NBA career with the Cincinnati Royals. The Bucks obtained him in 1970 in exchange for Flynn Robinson and Charlie Paulk.

On April 28, 1980, Oscar was unanimously inducted into the Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Massachusetts. "The Big O" returned to Milwaukee last season to play in the Legend's Game.

Lanier remains in the Milwaukee area, as president of Bob Lanier Enterprises, Inc., a promotional merchandising business based in Glendale.

The "Dobber" has stayed active in anti-drug programs and other programs designed at helping NBA players adjust to the pressures of the game. He also gives time to a variety of civic and charitable organizations in the Milwaukee area.

In his 14-year career, Lanier had a lifetime scoring average of 20.1 per game, grabbed 9,698 rebounds, played in eight All-Star games and an equal number of playoffs. Lanier was the NBA Rookie of the Year in 1971 and the All-Star MVP in 1974.

An All-American at St. Bonaventure, Lanier played for the Detroit Pistons for 9½ seasons before joining the Bucks in the 1979-80 season. He led the Bucks to five straight playoffs.

McGlocklin continues to stay close to the Bucks' organization as a broadcaster. A star at the University of Indiana, McGlocklin was drafted by the Royals in 1965. He played two seasons for that team and a third with the San Diego Rockets before coming to the Bucks in the 1968 expansion draft.

A pure shooter, McGlocklin averaged 12.5 points a game over his eight years with the Bucks, and his .505 field goal percentage ranks among the all time best in NBA history.

McGlocklin and former Brewer Sal Bando are partners in the Bando-McGlocklin Investment Co., Inc. Jon has been active in numerous charities and serves as president of the MACC (Midwest Athletes Against Childhood Cancer) Fund.

Winters will return to the Arena floor this season as an assistant coach of the Cleveland Cavaliers. Cavs' coach Lenny Wilkens named Brian to the spot last summer.

Before joining Wilkens' staff, Winters was an assistant coach at Princeton. He also worked as an investment counselor and did television color commentary after retiring from basketball in 1984.

An All-American at the University of South Carolina, Winters was drafted by the Los Angeles Lakers in 1974. He was named to the NBA All-Rookie team after averaging 11.7 points a game.

Winters came to the Bucks as part of the Abdul-Jabbar trade on June 6, 1975. He stayed for eight years, providing an outside shooting touch that earned him All-Star honors in 1975-76 and 1977-78. His best year was 1977-78 when he averaged 19.9 points a game in the regular season and 20.4 in the playoffs.

LONG & SHORT OF IT

Randy Breuer at 7'3" is the tallest player to don a Bucks uniform while Charlie Criss at 5'8" is the shortest. Geff Crompton at 290 lbs. is the heaviest while Lloyd Walton at 160 lbs. is the lightest. The Bucks all-time roster lists five players at 7' or taller and three players at under 6'.

Herb Kohl
President

"Sports," says Herb Kohl, "Is not a normal business. There's a rhythm to a team, there's a flow that's different from a normal business. I don't coach the team. I don't decide which plays to run. It's not my job to get involved with that . . . I'll spend several hours a day on activities. And there are times when I don't have to spend any hours a day."

The 51-year-old owner and president of the Milwaukee Bucks seems uniquely attuned to the world of professional sports. And that savvy didn't come overnight or even in the course of the past year or so since he purchased the team in March of 1985.

After staging a successful NBA exhibition game in Milwaukee in 1968 and making preliminary arrangements with the NBA for a franchise, Kohl stepped back while other investors came to the forefront and realized the birth of the franchise.

Says Allan "Bud" Selig, president of the Milwaukee Brewers and close friend of Kohl's since childhood, "Herb Kohl is the prototype of what a sports owner should be. He's very well disciplined, not a headline hunter. Money's not an overriding concern. That makes him refreshing in sports."

Bucks' Vice President of Business Operations John Steinmiller concurs. "Herb's style is one of being very supportive and creative and growth-oriented. He wants the team to become better, the operation to become stronger. He's someone who's in constant communication, but he's not on the scene daily. I think he puts a lot of confidence and trust in his top people. He allows us to operate as we see fit. We know we have his support and can call him when we need him."

Kohl places a great importance on the value of the Bucks NBA frachise to Milwaukee and to the State of Wisconsin. "When I made the investment, I did not make it in the normal business sense," recalls Kohl. "I recognized that it was not the best investment I could make with $18 or $19 million. I bought the franchise so that the team would remain in Milwaukee and I recognized how important it was for the people of Wisconsin to have this team."

That leads Kohl directly to another topic that daily rates headlines in Milwaukee . . . the Bradley Center. "It was clear when I bought the team that unless we found a place to play (with increased capacity) it would become a money-losing proposition. The Pettit's philanthropic donation that will be in excess of $50 million to build the Bradley Center will enable the Bucks to remain viable in Milwaukee. It is the difference between staying here and having to move."

Along with upgrading the facility the team will play in, Kohl realizes the importance of upgrading the quality of the team. "We must continually seek to improve upon our talent level. We need to continue to put a good product out on the floor," says Kohl. "This community is used to a winner."

Accordingly, Kohl has an aggressive philosophy when it comes to obtaining and keeping talent. "You have to be willing to spend money. Like the acquisition of Jack Sikma and our previous attempt at signing Joe Barry Carroll. And that of course means you have to pay your own players fully what they are worth."

"Finally," says Kohl, "I feel that the opportunity to have kept the team here in Milwaukee is one of the most unique and fortunate experiences I've enjoyed in my lifetime. I'm pleased I took advantage of it."

BUCKS SEIZE SEVENTH STRAIGHT DIVISION CROWN — SIXTH IN CENTRAL

The faces may change but one thing remains constant in Milwaukee and that's the NBA Central Division title. The Bucks captured their sixth straight Central title, and seventh consecutive division crown, with six games left in the season by virtue of a 116-107 win over Chicago at the Arena on April 1. In the 1984-85 season the Bucks had the division championship wrapped up by March 24 while in 1983-84 the clincher came on the final day of the season.

Milwaukee won its first division title in this seven year string in the Midwest Division during the 1979-80 season and have dominated the Central ever since. (The Bucks and Bulls were realigned into the Central Division of the Eastern Conference when the Dallas Mavericks became the NBA's 23rd franchise. Dallas is in the Midwest Division of the Western Conference).

The Bucks' seven year string is second only to Boston's streak of nine, which occured from the 1956-57 season until 1964-65. The Bucks lead grew to a season high 8½ games over Atlanta on April 7 as they had a grip on first place since November 14 and never looked back. The Bucks never trailed by more than 1½ games and that last happened on October 31 when Chicago was 3-0 and Milwaukee was 2-2. Milwaukee maintained at least a two game lead from November 29 when it was 14-5 and Detroit was 11-6. The Bucks have ended the regular season with a division title 12 times in the 18-year history of the franchise.

John Steinmiller
Vice President-Business Operations

The first full season under new Milwaukee Bucks owner Herb Kohl was a period of rejuvenation for Bucks' Vice-President of Business Operations John Steinmiller.

When Kohl bought the team in February of 1985, one of the first things he did was to make sure Steinmiller stayed with the team.

"Ownership changes are always times of a little apprehension and concern about what's going to happen," Steinmiller said. "I've been through three ownership changes and we've been very fortunate that all of them have been positive.

Under a new owner your enthusiasm gets recharged; you're full of energy and this was that kind of year. We had a very successful year on and off the court. Everything has continued to be very positive since Herb Kohl took over."

For Steinmiller and the rest of the Bucks front office, there were few changes under Kohl and they continued to enhance their reputation as being one of the best in pro sports, despite operating in the smallest market in the National Basketball Association.

"In some ways it's tougher and in other ways it's easier to do a good job because of the smaller market," he said. "We are able to get closer to our season ticket holders, our sponsors and we get to have a better feel for what our fans are feeling.

"While a small market has its economical disadvantages, I think there are some intangible advantages that we really have to capitalize on to make up for the disadvantages."

For Steinmiller and his staff, the future holds the impending building of the Bradley Center, the new home for the Bucks.

"The Bradley Center gives a lot of hope in areas that we haven't had before," said the 36-year-old Steinmiller. "In terms of crowds and total attendance and in terms of the number of people who will follow the Bucks, both will be increased by the Bradley Center. It's really an exciting thing to look forward to because we have been waiting for this building for 15 years.

"At the same time there will be a lot of challenges in terms of entering that building. How we adapt to having more seats than ever before, how we build on attendance, and how we increase our season ticket level are just a few of those challenges."

After graduating from Marquette University with a degree in journalism in 1970, Steinmiller joined the Bucks as an administrative assistant for the Bucks' summer camps with additional duties in the ticket and promotional areas.

In 1972, at the age of 22, Steinmiller became the youngest publicity director in professional sports. In 1977, he was named Director of Business Operations in charge of the day-to-day business operation of the club.

In his job, Steinmiller works closely with Bucks' Coach and Director of Player Personnel, Don Nelson.

"Don (Nelson) and I really share what in some clubs is called the general managers position. My responsibilities entail the off the court business operations, the marketing aspect and the day-to-day business operations of the club. I deal with not only all of the non-playing employees, but also with the players in many situations," he said.

Steinmiller's rise to a high position in the Bucks' organization at a young age was not a surprise to the highly respected Vice-President of Business Operations.

"One thing I learned in this business is never to overreact to surprises or disappointments because both of them come in equal numbers," he said. "I have been able to recognize opportunities and take advantage of them. It was not a planned growth, but I have been able to move along at a pace that has been beneficial for me."

Working for an organization as solid and as highly respected as the Bucks has been an added bonus for Steinmiller.

"The thing that sets this organization apart from others is the attitude that permeates from the front office staff to the game staff. The organization takes the view that we want to do the best we can and we want to be the best we can. Also, I think our professional approach to the game is the thing that helps sets us apart," he said.

Steinmiller future goals include helping the Bucks make the transition into the Bradley Center and to be part of a World Championship team.

"My long range goal is to grow professionally within the industry of athletics and become as good at marketing and managing as I can be," Steinmiller said. "I am very happy with the Bucks and with living in Milwaukee and I'm hopeful I could fulfill all of those goals within this organization."

Steinmiller, a native of Mt. Prospect, Illinois, is a graduate of St. Viator High School. He serves on the executive board of the Midwest Athletes Against Childhood Cancer (MACC) Fund, is the director of Big Brothers-Big Sisters and a member of the trustees of the Ronald McDonald House for families of hospitalized children. He is also a member of the Sales and Marketing executives of Milwaukee.

Steinmiller's hobbies include tennis and following all sports. He and his wife Corinne, live in Shorewood with their five-year-old son John Henry and two-year-old daughter Mary Kate.

Stu Inman
Director of Player Personnel

A man you may know very little about, but is famous in the inner circles of the NBA, helped make the Bucks the most prepared they have been for any draft this past spring, according to none other than Head Coach Don Nelson.

Stu Inman was with the Portland Trailblazers since their beginning in 1969, serving as director of player personnel and later general manager of the team that won the NBA crown in 1976-77. He helped attract and keep such players as Bob Gross, Dave Twardzik, Maurice Lucas and Bill Walton on the team.

So when Inman became available in the middle of last season as the Blazers tried to seek a solution to a decade-long slump, the Bucks scooped him up as quickly as possible.

"I really like the working atmosphere here in Milwaukee," Inman reciprocated. He believes the entire operation will operate more efficiently and successfully now that he will be able to take much of the player personnel chores from Nelson and let him relax and concern himself more with coaching.

"Nellie has almost over-achieved here because his players have done just that," Inman said. But he sees his job as providing the Milwaukee coach with more weapons in the Bucks' arsenal for upcoming seasons to battle the Bostons and Phillys for supremacy.

Already the Inman presence has been felt, with the trade for veteran center Jack Sikma and draft of Scott Skiles.

"Personnel moves will continue to be committee decisions that are talked out with Nellie and with (Bucks Owner) Herb Kohl," Inman said.

Inman admits he likes talking to his numerous high school, college, and pro contacts, keeping his mind full of minutiae on many athletes.

He sees a picture of either a third center or power forward that could still fit into the Bucks championship puzzle to help all the other pieces fit better, but he has not focused in on one particular face as of yet.

Since his beginning in the 1960's, Inman says players have "become bigger, stronger, and have more individual skills. But I'm not sure if their court sense is any better than the players of 20 years ago."

The 60-year-old grandfather says he still enjoys the hectic and chaotic life of the NBA.

"You learn to live in the pressure cooker," he said. "It's the only thing I've ever known."

And it's clear by the Bucks reaction to his services thus far, he knows quite a bit.

PERCENTAGE OF DRAFT PICKS

Of the 184 players the Bucks have tabbed from the collegiate ranks, 33 of them have actually seen action in a regular season or playoff game. That means only 18% of all players drafted by Milwaukee have played for the team.

LAST NON-FIRST ROUNDER TO SEE ACTION

The last non-first round draft pick by the Bucks to see action in a regular season game was fourth rounder Otis Howard of Austin Peay during the 1978-79 season. No fifth rounder has ever played for the Bucks.

LOWEST DRAFT PICK TO PLAY FOR BUCKS

Mickey Davis was the Bucks seventh round draft pick out of Duquesne in 1972. That makes him the lowest Bucks draft choice to play for Milwaukee. The Bucks have had at least two players see action that were never drafted. They are Delmer Beshore and Charlie Criss.

Don Nelson
Vice President Basketball Operations-Head Coach

Don Nelson reigns as one of the premier coaches in the National Basketball Association.

But, "Nellie" has become even more to the people of Wisconsin. The Milwaukee Bucks' coach has become one of the most popular figures in the Badger State.

Through "Nellie's Farm Fund" — a program designed to help financially strapped farmers — Nelson has become known as a caring individual with concerns that go beyond the basketball court.

"I love Wisconsin and its people," Nelson said, when asked about his farm fund. "They've treated me so wonderfully that I want to do something to show my appreciation and help some people who are going through some rough times."

While Nelson's concerns go beyond basketball, he makes it clear that the Bucks' fortunes on the court are still his top priority. He also makes it clear that he is excited about the 1986-87 season.

"I'm very excited about this season," Nelson said. "It promises to be one of change and growth, and I think we are on the road to seriously challenging for the NBA championship."

Nelson's excitement is fueled in part by the Bucks' acquisition of center Jack Sikma from the Seattle SuperSonics.

"I think Jack gives us the legitimate first-rate center we've needed since Bob Lanier retired," Nelson said. "He's a veteran who can do a lot of things out on that court."

Nelson also likes the Bucks' top draft choice, Michigan State guard Scott Skiles.

"I like Scott a lot. Of course, like any rookie, he'll have to go through a learning process in the NBA," Nelson said.

Sikma and Skiles will join an already solid team that is headed by perennial All-Star Sidney Moncrief, Terry Cummings and Paul Pressey.

"I really like my team," Nelson said." I think we play an exciting brand of basketball. I think we got over a big hump last year beating Philadelphia in the playoffs. Hopefully, with the additions, we're ready to go even further this season."

Nelson is working with two new assistant coaches this season. Del Harris, the former Houston Rockets head coach and Bucks' scout, replaced Mike Schuler, who left for the head job at Portland. Former Marquette coach Rick Majerus replaced Garry St. Jean who will be an assistant at New Jersey.

"Del and Rick are helping so much," Nelson said. "Del had a fine record with the Rockets and really knows the NBA. Rick is a student of the game and really is a hard worker."

Nelson is proud of the fact that the Bucks have put together their string of consecutive divisional titles amidst changes in players, coaches and even ownership.

"That is a point of pride for me," Nelson said. "I think it stems from the fact that the basic organization has stayed stable — the people in the front office and the philosophies that have been successful."

"We also have been fortunate to have good people join the organization. I am really pleased with how smoothly the 1985 transition in ownership went.

"I was and still am good friends with Jim Fitzgerald, our former owner, and have become good friends with Herb Kohl. We've managed to keep a consistency in the organization and on the court right through the changes."

After some probing, Nelson will admit he has played a role in that consistency and success.

"I feel I've become good at what I do," said the two-time NBA Coach of the Year, "I work hard at it and expect my players and assistant coaches to work hard too. I've been fortunate to have people around me who took time to teach me things when I was first starting. I've also been lucky to have people who are dedicated to success and have pride in what they do."

Nelson spent much of last summer working on Nellie's Farm Fund. He raised money by losing 50 pounds. Donors pledged money for each pound he dropped from a rather robust 272.

The biggest publicity draw of the fund was a cross-state tractor ride in August. Nelson drove a tractor from State Fair Park in West Allis to Wausau to raise money for farmers and increase public awareness of the farm crisis.

"It all started on Nellie Day during the playoffs last season," Nelson said. "I decided to try to help one farmer who had written me. But, it keeps growing, and we hope to expand it in time beyond Wisconsin to a national effort.

"I come from a farm background and know how difficult it can be. When a farmer loses his farm, he doesn't just lose a job. He loses a way of life.

"This is a way of paying the people of Wisconsin back. When I first came here from Boston, I wondered how I would be accepted. But, people were warm and open.

"I know that some people in the country make jokes about Wisconsin and Milwaukee, but they are wonderful places to live. Nobody tells those jokes to me — because after all I'm 6-7."

Just a couple years ago, rumors circulated that Nelson was considering retirement. He was said to be suffering from burnout.

That would have been understandable. Nelson played for more than a decade in the NBA —stringing together 465 consecutive games and scoring more than 10,000 points — before starting his coaching career. That's a long time to spend in any industry.

But, Nelson says the burnout was extinguished.

"It's been gone for a couple years," he said. "Some of the changes and the growth that has gone on refreshed me. I feel recharged and love my job. Now, I just want to coach the Milwaukee Bucks to an NBA title.

"We've knocked on the door for several years. If you pound hard enough and long enough, that door is likely to eventually open."

Del Harris
Assistant Coach

Del Harris remembers the days when he coached against Bucks' coach Don Nelson.

Now, Harris finds himself in Nellie's camp, as the Bucks' first assistant coach.

"I always admired Nellie's approach to the game and feel he's one of, if not the top coaches in basketball today," said Harris, who coached the Houston Rockets from 1979-83. "When the opportunity came up to join his staff, I couldn't pass it up."

Harris joined the Bucks' staff in June, after Mike Schuler left to take the head coaching job at Portland.

For three seasons, Harris served as a part-time scout for the Bucks, primarily focusing on Western Conference teams.

"I was familiar with the Bucks' organization through my scouting duties and know it's perhaps the best in the NBA," Harris said. "I left the scouting job to pursue a full-time college coaching job in March, but came back here when Nellie made the offer."

Harris is considered one of the best "X's and O's" men in basketball. He also is known as a teaching coach, which he exhibited last summer when he handled the Bucks' rookie and free agent camp and was named L.A. Summer League Coach of the Year.

At Houston, Harris won 141 games and got the Rockets into 31 playoff games. His 1981 team won the Western Conference title before losing to the Boston Celtics in the NBA championship series.

Before coaching the Rockets, Harris coached at Earlham College, earning 176 wins from 1965-74. His teams were ranked in the NAIA Top 10 twice and won three conference titles.

Harris also coached in Puerto Rico from 1969-75 where his Bayama Cowboys team won three national titles. From 1962-65, Harris posted a 79-36 record as a high school coach.

While serving as the Bucks' scout, Harris also ran a marketing and investment company in Houston.

Harris has a bachelor's degree from Milligan College and a master's from Indiana. He was a fine baseball and basketball player in Indiana.

Some experts consider Harris a leading candidate for another head coaching job in the NBA, but right now, Del is only interested in his Bucks' job.

"I don't believe in working one job with an eye on another," he said. "I just want to do a good job for the Milwaukee Bucks right now."

Harris thinks the Bucks might be on the verge of seriously challenging for the NBA title.

Rick Majerus
Assistant Coach

When Milwaukee Bucks Coach Don Nelson offered Rick Majerus a chance to become an assistant coach in the National Basketball Association, it was an opportunity that Majerus couldn't pass up.

Despite 15 years at Marquette University, including three successful years as head coach, Majerus was intrigued with the prospect of life in the NBA.

"I've been friends with Don (Nelson) for a long time," Majerus said. "The more I talked with Nellie about the NBA draft and the pro game as a whole, I said to myself, 'wow, this could be a great way of life!'

"The thing about a college coach is that you never go home at eight o'clock at night. I think any coach takes the game home with him, but a college coach takes home the grade problems, the family problems, and any other problems your players might have.

"That baggage can really wear you down. You're like a 24-hour-a-day on-call guidance counselor and academic coordinator. You're really a surrogate parent throughout those four years of their lives."

So, when Nelson offered him the job, Majerus grabbed it.

"It was just a case of looking out for something that would be a little better for me down the road," he said. "You are always looking to advance. If I didn't make a move at this time, I might never have been able to. I never had aspirations of coaching at the pro level, but this opportunity was just too good to pass up."

His new job with the Bucks will allow him to get back to the thing that he loves the most —coaching the basics of the game of basketball.

"This is strictly a basketball situation. This is where the best basketball in the world is played. The NBA has the best players and the finest coaches," he said.

Majerus, 38, spent 15 seasons as a member of the Marquette University coaching staff. In his three seasons as head coach, he compiled a 56-35 record, including three appearances in the National Invitational Tournament.

Majerus was an assistant coach under Al McGuire from 1972-77, during which Marquette's teams had a combined record of 151 wins and 26 losses. Those squads reached the NCAA tournament each of those years, winning the NCAA championship in 1977.

As first assistant coach to Hank Raymonds, Majerus was part of the Warrior tradition of continued winning seasons and post-season play.

Majerus graduated from Marquette in 1970 with a Bachelor of Arts degree in history and earned his Master's degree in education in 1979. He is a 1966 graduate of Marquette University High School in Milwaukee.

With the Bucks' Majerus will be the second assistant to Nelson, handling the scouting of opponents in addition to helping coach the team.

"I was so immersed in Al's (McGuire) and Hank's (Raymonds) system for 12 years," he said. "This year is going to be a learning experience for me. This is a situation where I can learn more basketball from a technical standpoint.

"I can get totally immersed in a different system, working with a guy who is not only a great X's and O's coach, but also a great players' coach. The whole situation is something that I'm really excited about."

What the future holds for Majerus is something that he would rather not talk about.

"All my energies right now are geared towards being the best NBA assistant coach that I can be," Majerus said. "I know what it is like to be a head coach and I'm hoping to relieve some of that pressure and contribute to the growth of the team."

As Majerus embarks on his first year at the professional basketball level, he is looking forward to many new experiences.

"I don't know what it will be like coaching someone who makes a million dollars a year or to go scout the Boston Celtics and come back and have any kind of idea of how to beat them," he said. "In the NBA it's kind of funny, you're playing for a bonus at the end of the year instead of a watch."

Majerus serves on the board of directors for the Midwest Athletes Against Childhood Cancer (MACC) Fund and on the board of directors for Wisconsin Employers Group Insurance, headquartered in Green Bay, Wisconsin.

A bachelor who lives in Milwaukee, Majerus's hobbies include body surfing, swimming, tennis and reading.

Sam Schuler
Scout

For one year, the Bucks had three Schulers on their staff. That number has dropped to two with the departure of Mike Schuler, who has moved on to assume the head coaching duties with the Portland Trailblazers, but the Schuler surmane will remain prominent within the Bucks organization.

That's because scout Sam Schuler will begin his second season of assessing college talent for the Bucks, while wife Jean will continue to serve as executive secretary to Head Coach Don Nelson and Vice President of Business Operations John Steinmiller.

Sam Schuler, 43, was hired last year to handle college scouting for the Bucks. He works closely with player personnel director Stu Inman, who came on board after the start of last season.

"Stu and I give the team two sets of eyes," Schuler said. "I originally was hired to relieve some of the duties from Garry St. Jean (who has since gone to the New Jersey Nets), but my duties have not changed that much since Stu came on board."

Those duties include a rugged travel schedule from mid-November to mid-April. Schuler is on the road an average of five days a week during that period, scouting players at all levels of collegiate competition.

"The NBA has become more and more conscious of players at both big and small schools," Schuler said. "I see a lot of games at all levels."

Schuler has a wide criteria to consider when scouting players.

"We naturally want to see what their physical talent is, but we also are very attuned to intelligent players," Schuler said. "We feel rather strongly that one difference between the elite teams, the top four or five in the NBA, and the also-rans might be intelligence."

Schuler feels he is settling into his job.

"I'm feeling comfortable now, after a year of adjustment," he said. "Things have fallen into place. I'm still very enthusiastic and enjoy the job."

Working at the same place as his wife has not been a problem. In fact, during the season, Sam seldom is the same place as Jean. "It really hasn't been any problem at all," Sam said. "While we're at work, we are both professionals."

Before joining the Bucks, Schuler spent 20 years in the physical education and high school coaching fields. He was a physical education teacher for 17 years at Oak Creek High School and coached in the basketball program there for nine years.

Schuler is a native of Blanchardville, Wisconsin, and a graduate of Blanchardville High School. He received his degree in physical education from the University of Wisconsin-LaCrosse in 1965. He coached baseball at Wisconsin Heights for three seasons before moving to Oak Creek in 1968.

Sam has been a Bucks' fan for years and frequently talked basketball with Coach Don Nelson. When the Bucks expanded their front office under Herb Kohl's ownership, Nellie asked Sam to join the staff.

The Schulers are the parents of three children, Kimberly, Scott and David. They reside in Wauwatosa.

Jeff Snedeker
Trainer

There is one person in the Milwaukee Bucks organization who is responsible for keeping the Bucks players on the court along with making arrangements for them off the court.

That person is Jeff Snedeker, who is in his eighth season as the Bucks trainer and traveling secretary.

Snedeker has many facets to his jobs, including the prevention and immediate care of all injuries to the Bucks players. He is also responsible for the conditioning, the in-season strength program and the rehabilitation of all injuries.

To top it off, Snedeker handles all of the team's travel arrangements, including airlines, hotels and buses.

But the area where Snedeker prefers to spend much of his time is the prevention of injuries and the Bucks year-old weight room is one area he is hoping will do just that.

"I think it really has had a positive effect on the players," the 50-year-old Snedeker said. "We had a relatively injury free season. The players were stronger through the playoffs in terms of being in condition and in terms of basketball strength."

Snedeker believes that the players' use of the weight room during the season will enhance their performance on the court towards the end of the season and will likely extend their playing career.

"The variables in athletics of strength, flexibility and conditioning are things that you have under your direct control," he said. "You can do things that will affect each of these things. All of these are important in how well a player performs, whether it's basketball or ballet."

Snedeker designs the weight programs for the players, who use the weight room twice a week during the season, while new assistant coach Rick Majerus implements them.

"I design the programs to make the players stronger in terms of basketball strength. We are not body builders, or power lifters, we are a basketball team. So, everything we do in terms of affecting these variables is done in how they relate to basketball," he said.

Before coming to the Bucks, Snedeker spent 14 seasons treating the National Football League's New York Jets and was involved in the difficult task of keeping quarterback Joe Namath's knees and throwing arm intact enough to win Super Bowl III. He was once the youngest trainer in the NFL.

After leaving the Jets, Snedeker worked for two seasons with the North American Soccer League's New York Cosmos, including their NASL title team and treated soccer superstar Pele, while touring internationally several times with the club.

Seeing the need in Milwaukee to have some sort of physical therapy facility, Snedeker currently operates four offices of the "The Sports Clinic," in the Milwaukee area. These clinics, opened in 1981, are open to the public and are frequently used by members of the Bucks, Brewers, Admirals and Wave during their seasons and also during their off-seasons.

"When I first arrived, I looked around the Milwaukee community and found that there was nobody doing anything in the sports medicine field," Snedeker said. "In conjunction with a physical therapist, I started a private practice physical therapy rehabilitation place using the same techniques that are used in professional sports and it has been very successful."

Snedeker is the Treasurer of the NBA's Trainer's Association and is also involved with the Great Lakes Athletic Trainers Association, the American College of Medicine and the Association of Fitness in Business.

He has a Master of Science of degree in athletic training from Indiana University and has lectured in physical education at Barnard College in New York while teaching graduate courses in sports medicine.

Snedeker, whose hobbies include tennis and sailing, and his wife, Joy live in Whitefish Bay. They have four daughters, Cheryl, Connie, Karen and Cathy. During the off-season, the Snedekers escape to Lake George on the eastern border of upstate New York.

Bill King II
Director of Publicity

It's been ten seasons and nearly 1,000 games since Bill King II joined the Milwaukee Bucks as Director of Publicity. It began with the "Green and Growing" days of Marques Johnson, Brian Winters, Junior Bridgeman and Dave Meyers. Today the Bucks are referred to as the "Northern Stars of the NBA" and are poised to challenge for the NBA title with Terry Cummings, Sidney Moncrief, Paul Pressey, and Jack Sikma.

Since 1976 King's office has served as the major conduit of information between the NBA team, the local and national media, and Bucks fans. The information is dissemminated in various ways ranging from news releases, media guides, and the HOOP game program, to press conferences, interview shows, and personal appearances. King is responsible for the management of home games in the Milwaukee Arena with special attention to press accommodations, the statistical crew, and photography. Under King's direction, the Bucks were the first NBA team to implement a courtside computerized scoring system to tabulate and distribute statistics to the media. The scheduling of appearances by players and front office staff is also handled through his office. In addition he serves as a liaison between the Bucks and WVTV-Channel 18 on selected road games.

King entered the NBA as the youngest publicity director in professional sports on the major league level. Now 31, he ranks fourth in seniority among his NBA peers. This season he will serve as the Vice President of the NBA Public Relations Directors Association. That group twice cited King with an honorable mention award as the top P.R. director in the NBA's Eastern Conference as voted by a selected group of NBA writers and broadcasters and sponsored by the Phillips Petroleum Corporation.

A native of Neptune City, New Jersey, King is a graduate of Neptune High School where he was involved in a host of extracurricular activities. He went on to become the youngest full-time Sports Information Director in the nation at Morris Harvey College (now the University of Charleston), in Charleston, West Virginia. While serving as the Morris Harvey Sports Information Director, King's publications received numerous national awards from CoSIDA, the College Sports Information Directors of America. King was named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities while at Morris Harvey, an award he also received on the high school level.

King joined the Bucks after serving a brief stint as the Assistant Promotions Director at Tulane University in New Orleans and eight years as publicist and statistician for the Jersey Shore Summer Basketball League, a loop that features NBA players.

Bill and his wife, the former Shelley Bundy, call Oconomowoc home. He is an avid jet skier.

Bea Westfahl
Ticket and Office Manager

Being the Milwaukee Bucks ticket and office manager is a job that is more complicated than it looks, but for 18 seasons, Bea Westfahl has run one of the most efficient office operations in the National Basketball Association.

The responsibilities of Westfahl's job include the processing of the mail, over-the-counter and group ticket sales and the expert servicing of several thousand Bucks season ticketholders.

To bring the season ticketholders closer to the team, Westfahl works closely with them in the selection of their seat locations and other services they may need during the course of the season.

In addition to all of these duties, Westfahl supervises a seven person office staff and coordinates the Bucks link with the computerized Ticketron outlets.

Westfahl joined the Bucks staff in 1969 after nine years as the head of concessions and grandstand operations for Wisconsin State Fair Park.

Westfahl is a charter member and serves on the advisory board of Box Office Management International (BOMI). This international organization is comprised of arenas, stadiums, theaters, universities, coliseums and concert halls.

BOMI, which services as a think tank for those working in the ticket industry, helps advance management techniques, upgrade ticket systems, exchange ideas and concepts on effective box-office management while monitoring and analyzing the latest technological advances in ticket selling and accounting.

A resident of Milwaukee, Westfahl was born in Wauwatosa and raised in West Allis. She spends her hours away from the office with her husband, Don, a retired city of Milwaukee fireman. They are the parents of three sons and have two grandchildren.

Westfahl, a former music teacher, still enjoys music. She was at one time a private music instructor in the Milwaukee area.

When a rare hour or day of relaxation presents itself, Westfahl and her family head for Tichigan Lake where they participate in their favorite sports of swimming, boating and snowmobiling. On occasion, she will revert to her original love of music and relax by playing the piano.

Chuck Reupert
Controller

It takes a lot to keep a good man down. Bucks' controller Chuck Reupert has proven that.

Reupert overcame two broken legs, suffered in a race car accident, and a heart attack within a year to continue on as the Bucks' important "numbers man."

"I missed 10 days when I suffered the heart attack because they wouldn't let me out of the hospital, but I didn't miss any work with the broken legs because I made it in a wheel chair," said Reupert, who is literally back on his feet now.

Reupert has been keeping an eye on the Bucks' day-to-day finances for 16 years now. He has served under three owners.

The race car accident, suffered in Indianapolis, won't keep Reupert away from his favorite hobby. A former Class D Midwest champ, Reupert plans on racing again once he can rebuild his custom sports car.

Chuck attended Boys Tech High School, the University of Wisconsin and UW-Milwaukee. He served as an infantry squad leader in Korea and was a third officer in the U.S. Maritime Service in World War II.

Reupert has twin sons, Mike and Mark, who live in the Milwaukee area. Chuck, his wife Susie, and 13 year old son, Sean, live in Milwaukee.

Steve Harms
Sales Coordinator

The Milwaukee Bucks reached a five-year high in season ticket sales during the 1985-86 season and it wasn't a coincidence that it happened after Steve Harms joined the Bucks sales staff.

Harms, the Bucks' Sales Coordinator, joined the team in July of 1985 after two and a half years of being one of the top sales persons in the Detroit Pistons organization.

"I had one of the best summers ever in terms of selling tickets after arriving in Milwaukee," said the 26-year-old Brookfield native. "My arrival coincided with the increase in season ticketholders and I like to think that I contributed to that success."

Harms is the Bucks' outside sales contact, selling tickets to corporations, businesses, and professionals throughout the Greater Milwaukee area. He is also responsible for a two-person summer sales staff, setting up of major group nights such as Scout night, and arranging halftime entertainment.

He also assisted in setting up the "The Bucks Boosters," a citizen support group which aids the Bucks organization in its drive to increase ticket sales. The group is composed of fifteen community leaders and business persons who head teams of additional volunteers who, in turn, call on prospective ticket purchasers.

After working with a large arena like the Silverdome in Detroit, working with a smaller arena in a smaller city has been an exciting challenge for Harms.

"This type of market has it's own built-in limitations," he said. "At the same time there are many challenges. If we didn't have a winning team, it would be a lot harder to be successful in this market. We can do a lot of things in this market in terms of getting closer to our fans than in larger markets because of the size of the population."

The impending building of the Bradley Center is something that enticed Harms' move to Milwaukee and has him very excited about the future of the Bucks.

"I'm used to dealing with large crowds because of my work with the Silverdome," Harms said. "The prospect of NBA basketball in Milwaukee appears to be very bright. We will have to work with about 7,000 more seats and that will mean we will have to get into more aggressive marketing to fill them. But, this is something that I am really looking forward to."

Harms holds a degree in Recreational Administration from the University of Wisconsin —LaCrosse and lives in Brookfield with his wife, Lori, a medical technologist.

Jean Schuler
Executive Secretary

There is one person in the Milwaukee Bucks organization that both Head Coach Don Nelson and Vice-President of Business Operations John Steinmiller depend on.

That person is Jean Schuler, the Bucks executive secretary for the past 14 years. Her job is to assist both Nelson and Steinmiller in various ways, including administration, personal scheduling, dealing with the Bucks players and working with business clients.

With Steinmiller being in charge of the Bucks day-to-day business operations and Nelson in charge of the basketball operations, Schuler gets involved in both sides of the Bucks organization.

"My job includes a wide variety of things," Schuler said. "It's really hard to list the specific duties because they are constantly changing."

Schuler, a native of Mondovi, Wisconsin, joined the Bucks staff in 1972 after working in the secretarial field in the Milwaukee area for several years. She joined the Bucks staff at the request of general manager Wayne Embry and has held the position of executive secretary ever since.

Schuler feels that working for a professional organization that is as highly regarded and respected as the Bucks are around the world of professional sports has made her job easier.

Last season was the first year that Jean and her husband, Sam, both worked for the Bucks. Sam was hired in the summer of 1985 to help the Bucks in their scouting duties.

A husband-wife team sharing the same office space is not always the most compatible position for a couple to be in, but, that has not been the case for Sam and Jean.

"Both of us working for the same organization really worked out well and because of that it was a very good year for both of us," Jean said.

"He's happy doing what he's doing and I'm happy doing what I'm doing and that's what counts."

The Schulers, who reside in suburban Wauwatosa, are parents of three children, Kimberly, Scott and David.

Fr. Gene Jakubek, S.J.
Chaplain

Whether it's a wealthy 7-foot center, or somebody who's down on his or her luck, Fr. Gene Jakubek is there to offer help.

Fr. Gene serves as the Bucks' chaplain, offering spiritual and psychological help to the players and coaches when it's needed. He enjoys his role with the team.

"I love sports and am very high on the Bucks," Fr. Gene said. "There are good people involved with the franchise, from the front office to the players.

"I not only am a fan of the Bucks, but also Marquette. Sports offers a wonderful diversion from the many other projects that I do."

Fr. Gene is indeed a very busy man. His project HELP —Happiness for the Elderly, Lonely and Poor — now reaches 156,000 people, up from 145,000 a year ago.

More than 2,400 volunteers work through HELP to feed, clothe and entertain the city's less fortunate.

"The Answer Is Love" — Fr. Gene's inspirational television program —now reaches over 20 million viewers in the nation.

"It has been picked up by cable television and I get letters from all over the country," Fr. Gene said.

Fr. Gene also gives retreats and talks across the country and does a great deal of marriage counseling. Spreading God's word comes easy for him, whether it be in one-on-one counseling or through the mass media.

"I have to give credit for that to my parents," Fr. Gene said of his ability to reach people. "I sold shoes in my father's store as a young person, and once a salesman always a salesman. It's also easy when you have the best product in the world to sell."

Fr. Gene will become acquainted with some new people this year — such as rookie Scott Skiles and center Jack Sikma, acquired from the Seattle SuperSonics.

"I enjoy meeting the new players and coaches and working with them," he said. "I also enjoy keeping in touch with the former players and coaches. Friends, whether they are old or new, are friends."

Tom Hoffer
Equipment Manager

Tom Hoffer is as much a part of Milwaukee Bucks tradition as green uniforms.

But just like those uniforms, Hoffer's role is ever-changing . . . becoming more sophisticated.

The 29-year-old equipment manager started out in the 1973-74 season, when Kareem Abdul-Jabbar was still an Arena habitue, as a Bucks ball boy. He has been equipment manager for the past 11 years, but has been more and more involved in the promotional aspect of the Milwaukee Bucks operation.

That suits Hoffer just fine in both temperament and ability.

As supervisor of the Bucks numerous promotional events, Hoffer will direct up to 20 promotional staffers aged 15-30.

Every night there are eight ball boys, who help handle the Bucks equipment on the floor and in both locker rooms. There are two video assistants who keep track of all the games that need to be recorded.

And, of course, there's the omnipresent Bucks mascot, Bango.

When the team moves into the Bradley Center, Hoffer believes that his promotional role will continue to increase.

"We'll probably increase the participatory promotions, like pom pon night and high school band night," he said.

Of course, it will change the logistics of being equipment manager to be in the new, much larger Bradley Center when it is constructed.

Even the summers are getting busy for the quick-witted Hoffer. Besides an expanded taping program ordered by the Bucks basketball staff, Hoffer has been working steadily with director of player personnel Stu Inman on such things as rookie camps and other Bucks programs involving the community.

"I'm doing a little more supervising now and a little less folding towels, " said Hoffer.

Regardless of the job the Bucks have given him, Hoffer has handled it with a practiced panache that reflects well both on him and on the Bucks.

Hoffer became a homeowner in his hometown of Bayview this summer.

Jim Irwin
Voice of the Bucks

Jim Irwin's ultimate goal is to paint basketball images in the radio listener's minds.

In his seventh full season as the "Voice of the Bucks," Irwin is obviously accomplishing his goals.

"I like doing radio play-by-play and it's not difficult for me. I just describe what I see," he said.

Because the NBA is such an action-packed sport, Irwin admits "there's not a lot of dead space" in the broadcasts. "It's a continuous flow."

Irwin is also well known as a local TV personality-sportscaster both on WTMJ Radio and TV. But because the demands on his time are so great —particularly in the fall — he said he does very little TV work at all anymore.

The radio station broadcasts the 82 regular season games plus the playoffs, starting in late October. At the same time, Irwin is doing both University of Wisconsin-Madison football and Packer football for the radio.

"It can make for some hectic weekends," Irwin says.

"Until December, the weekends are a little crazy," he said." But I don't get uptight about all the traveling. I enjoy new places and old places. It may get a little tiresome toward the end of the season, but I can hardly wait to get back toward the end of summer."

Irwin does the daily morning sports show, from 5:30 a.m.-8:30 a.m., where he also delivers a regular piece of analysis or opinion, "Viewpoint". During the summer, such early hours free him up for his favorite participatory sport, golf.

After receiving his degree from the University of Missouri, Irwin came to Wisconsin in 1964 to handle Packer games for a Green Bay station. In 1969, he joined WTMJ as a color man for Wisconsin football broadcasts, joining Ted Moore. When Moore left the following year, Irwin was pegged for the play-by-play slot, which has made him very happy.

"It's what I like to do," he said of his announcing with the Bucks. "And I think if you like doing a thing, you do it well."

Despite serving during three decades on the local sports scene, Irwin said he does not plan on retiring for 8-10 years.

He is particularly excited about the Bucks off-season move to acquire veteran center Jack Sikma from the Seattle Supersonics and the drafting of college standout Scott Skiles in the first round.

"There's no question that the Bucks have upgraded themselves and I expect them to be better," Irwin said. "And yet it's sometimes hard to be better because the Bucks have always been a good team."

But don't expect Irwin to lose too much of his composure despite his excitement.

"I hope my announcing style is interesting and exciting but I always try to build a ball game up to a high point rather than get carried away early," he said.

"Irwin's wife, Gloria, is also involved in communications, as a producer for public television. They live in Whitefish Bay and have two children, Anne and Jay.

Both are away at college so they don't have the opportunity Bucks fans have to listen to Irwin paint pictures over the radio as the Bucks take on their opponents.

BUCKS WIN 10 STRAIGHT AT HOME TO START SEASON

The Bucks reeled off 10 straight home wins at the start of the 1984-85 season to set a franchise record for consecutive home wins at the start of a season. The all-time Club record for consecutive home wins is 17 (1/6/73 to 3/12/73) and over a two season span 25 (1/6/73 to 11/13/73 - 17 + 8).

Jon McGlocklin
Color Analyst

Jon McGlocklin is going to be spending a lot of time on the road this winter with a new, young and witty companion as he begins his 11th season as color analyst for the Milwaukee Bucks WVTV-Channel 18 telecasts and WTMJ radiocasts.

But it is not likely his wife Pam will mind any more than if he were by himself. You see, the companion "Johnny Mac" will be keeping time with is new TV announcer Jim Paschke.

After a recent interview with HOOP, it sounds like "Gentleman Jon" and Paschke, who share a deep mutual respect, will have a lot of fun trading information and barbs. Like Paschke, McGlocklin recalls the days when they first paired up on a TV program called, "Champion Teens."

"He's a professional and a guy who works hard at what he does," McGlocklin said of his new teammate.

After 11 seasons in the NBA as a player and the past 10 as an announcer, McGlocklin also admits it is nice to have a change occasionally. In that vein, McGlocklin is looking forward to the addition of veteran center Jack Sikma and first round draft choice Scott Skiles to the Bucks.

"It gives me new vigor to see the new faces," he said. "The Bucks have a much better potential to win a championship this year now. They are capable of beating Boston in a series now. Certainly, they are within striking distance."

Still, McGlocklin's season is almost as grueling as the Bucks, with 41 radio games and 30 TV games of the 82-game season — plus the playoffs — keeping him busy from October-June.

As if that isn't enough, the Greendale resident also serves as vice-president of the Bando-McGlocklin Investment Co., Inc., a partnership operated with former Brewer Sal Bando. And that company spawned another new enterprise for the pair, Bishops Woods I, a real estate trust.

Then, of course, there is McGlocklin's most endearing association of all with the Midwest Athletes Against Childhood Cancer (MACC) Fund, which was formed with him as president when he retired in 1976. Last year it raised $750,000 to support research for effective treatments and cures for childhood cancer.

Add to that his current and past involvement in Athletes for Youth, the Wisconsin Society to Prevent Blindness, the Wisconsin Easter Seal Foundation, and others, and it's a wonder even the exciting NBA can hold his attention during games.

It looks like that will be the task of his new companion this year . . . one that they are both looking forward to.

Jim Paschke
TV Announcer

"You never know where you'll find yourself, but if this is the last job I ever have, I won't mind."

That was Jim Paschke's reaction after being named the WVTV-Channel 18 Bucks and Milwaukee Brewers play-by-play man by the station's operations manager, Lyle Schulze, during the summer.

The amiable, good-looking Paschke is best known as the main sports reporter and then sports director at WITI-TV6 for the past six years. He came to Milwaukee after having spent three years as sports director at Channel 15 in Madison, so he also has a following there.

"It has got to be the best job in sports when you can do play-by-play, especially when it's local like this," said the 35-year-old Paschke, who traces his roots in the electronic media to a Knoxville, Iowa radio station in the early 1970's.

After a stint in Peoria, Illinois, Paschke began to gain play-by-play experience in Madison, as an analyst on University of Wisconsin-Madison football and basketball games, for the state network.

Even while chief reporter and then sports director at Channel 6, Paschke still did play-by-play at several Marquette University basketball games and Milwaukee Admirals hockey games for the now-defunct SportsVue Network. Other play-by-play experience includes Badger football for the state network and auto races from State Fair Park.

"There will still be some adjustment period adopting to doing it all over again," Paschke said.

"My philosophy of it is the game is the thing and I will react naturally to what I see . . . giving an honest evaluation," the new Bucks announcer said.

"I tend not to be a screamer and tend to be under control," then adding with a laugh, "but enthusiastically!"

As a career move, "The timing is perfect. I've enjoyed being sports director very much, but these are two different jobs," he said.

Besides, he will still be able to do some free-lance work for WITI, "So I will have the best of both worlds."

Paschke said he was particularly looking forward to working with Bucks long-time color analyst Jon McGlocklin.

"We worked together before, on a TV show called 'Champion Teens,' about six years ago and had a really great time," Paschke said of his new partner. "He's marvelous. And his credibility is without peer."

In fact, Paschke said the Bucks have such a good organization in place, and have had for so long, that it might be taken for granted a bit, "and it shouldn't be."

Paschke is married but says his wife Debbie has an understanding attitude about his having to travel on the road for some of the 30 regular season telecasts in 1986-87, plus playoffs.

Paschke's first broadcast was the Oct. 31 game from Detroit.

He said the year should be especially enjoyable because of additional interest in new Bucks center Jack Sikma and draft choice and college standout Scott Skiles.

Paschke believes their contributions will loom large by the end of the season.

The same will likely be true of the man who has been named to tell TV viewers about them.

GAME #82 FEATURES A RACE DOWN TO THE WIRE

As if to prove his lofty second place finish in the American Airlines Long Distance Shootout at the All-Star festivities wasn't a fluke, Craig Hodges went out in the final game of the 1985-86 campaign against New York and decided this time he would settle for nothing less than first place honors in the NBA three point field goal percentage race. Entering the final game, Hodges, the pursuer, was at .442% while New York's Trent Tucker, the leader, was at .451%. Hodges' quest seemed a dead issue when he misfired on his first two attempts, but Craig nailed his final four bonus shots to steal the title away from a gun-shy Tucker, who didn't attempt a three pointer in the final five games of the season. The final numbers read: Hodges .4506172% (73-162) and Tucker .4505495% (41-91). That figure set an NBA standard for three point field goal percentage as Craig eclipsed Fred Brown's mark of .443% set in the 1979-80 season, which was the inaugural year of the three point shot in the NBA. Craig personally outshot 11 clubs by canning 73 three pointers.

THREE POINTERS

Since the inception of the three point shot back in the 1979-80 season the Bucks have canned 312-1,140 (.274%) vs. 342-1,441 (.225%) for their opponents. Either four former or current Bucks have had at least one four point point play though only two had one while wearing a Bucks uniform. Here's the list: Sam Smith recorded the first ever (Chicago vs. Milwaukee 10/21/79), Brian Winters had the second ever scored (Milwaukee vs. Philadelphia 11/6/79) and another (Milwaukee vs. Phoenix 2/7/82), Kevin Grevey had two (Washington vs. Philadelphia 11/3/81 and Washington vs. New York 3/21/82), and Paul Pressey (Milwaukee vs. Washington 12/1/84) for the most recent one by a Bucks player.

'85-'86 Regular Season: Experienced a subpar season statistically but still remained a key cog to the Milwaukee attack and did post more than respectable numbers . . . tallied 19.8 points a contest, but for the first time in his four year career didn't lead his team in scoring (was just edged out by Sidney Moncrief who finished at 20.2 ppg) . . . led the Bucks in scoring 27 times, while also pacing the team in rebounding a team high 39 times . . . was the team leader in caroms, pulling down 8.5 boards per outing . . . averaged 23.4 ppg and 9.7 rpg over his first three seasons as a pro . . . scored in double figures on 79 occasions and had a streak of 239 straight games of double digit scoring snapped on 11/10/85 against the Sixers (finished with six points) . . . eclipsed the 20 point barrier 42 times and the 30 point mark five times (including a season high 35 markers vs. the Bullets 1/16/86) . . . finished with 28 double-doubles on the season (down from 33 the previous season) and Milwaukee went 18-10 in those contests . . . reached the 7,000 point plateau in the final game of the season and is now at 7,002 . . . surpassed his 10,000th minute in the NBA — averaged a career low 32.5 minutes per outing . . . recorded single season career highs in games played and started (all 82), defensive rebounds and tied his personal low for disqualifications . . . was afflicted by a shooting slump most of the season finishing at .474%, which by far was his worst effort as a pro or collegian . . . until the '85-'86 season Terry never shot below .494% in college or the NBA . . . for his entire pro career he is shooting at a .496% clip . . . eclipsed .500% from the floor on 38 occasions last year, but when he dropped below that mark he shot just .386% . . . definitely a different shooter on the road as T.C. hit only .442% away from the Arena and a respectable .506% at home . . . was also plagued by wayward free throw shooting, making a career low .656% of his tries (for career was at .723% coming into the season) . . . improved over the final 20 games at the line by sinking .726% . . . one of only two Bucks to appear in all 82 games . . . grabbed a career high-tying 472 defensive rebounds while recording his second best totals (out of four year career) in assists (193) and steals (121) . . . fouled out of just four games on the year, compared to 20 DQ's over his first three campaigns.

1986 Playoffs: Paced the club in scoring with a 21.6 average and led the team in 10 of the 14 playoff games . . . also led the team in rebounding with 9.9 caroms per outing . . . improved on his field goal shooting in the playoffs by connecting on .514% from the field . . . had a superb series in the conference semifinals against Philadelphia posting marks of 23.6 points, 10 rebounds and .543% field goal accuracy . . . dislocated a finger on his shooting hand in the seventh and deciding game against Philadelphia but returned to the game and managed to hit his first shot from 20' after having the finger attended to . . . in game #2 vs. the 76ers T.C. had a 1986 playoff high of 30 points . . . set a career playoff high for rebounds with 18 in game #3 of the conference finals vs. Boston . . . also in that contest recorded his 500th playoff point; now has 523 points in just 22 games for an average of 23.8.

NBA Career: All-NBA Second Team, 1985 . . . NBA All-Rookie Team, 1983 . . . Named the NBA's Rookie-of-the-Year in 1982-83, a year in which he ranked 10th in the League in both scoring (23.7) and rebounding (10.6) . . . became the first rookie since Kareem Abdul-Jabbar in 1969-70 (then Lew Alcindor) to rank in the top ten in both categories . . . led the San Diego Clippers in scoring the first two years of his career . . . was the Clippers first round draft pick in 1982 and second overall behind James Worthy of the Los Angeles Lakers . . . missed 13 games as a pro in his first two seasons (12 as a rookie and one during the 1983-84 season) — five of those games were due to a contract dispute and eight due to a disorder called arrythmia (irregular heartbeat) . . . he is now taking medication for the disorder and has it under control . . . in his rookie campaign he led the Clippers in scoring, rebounding, field goals made and attempted (684-1,309), offensive, defensive, and total rebounds (303-441-744), and steals (129) . . . was second in free throws made and attempted (292-412), blocked shots (62) and total minutes (2,531) . . . has scored 20 or more points 212 times in his NBA career and 30 or more 38 times . . . established a playoff career high of 41 points against Philadelphia in game #2 of the 1985 Eastern Conference semifinals . . . career high for rebounds in a game is 24, set twice in 1982-83 (@ Indiana, November 9, 1982; and @ Utah, January 5, 1983).

College: Joined the NBA as an underclass eligible following his junior year at DePaul . . . led the Blue Demons in rebounding all three seasons and in scoring his junior year with a 22.3 mark . . . was second on the club to Mark Aguirre in scoring his freshman and sophomore seasons . . . was a consensus All-American (First Team) following his junior season . . . while at DePaul, the Blue Demons posted a 79-6 record.

Personal: Terry and his wife, Vonnie, have two sons, Robert Tyrell (T.J.), age five and Sean, born last summer . . . traveled extensively during the off-season speaking at numerous bible colleges and basketball camps on life values, education, and drug and alcohol abuse . . . is an ordained Pentecostal minister/evangelist . . . is working on a gospel album . . . once sang the national anthem a capella at a Bucks home game . . . also sang with local celebrities on a localized version of "We are the World" with proceeds going to stock food banks.

'85-'86 Regular Season: Emerged as a key contributor off the bench in his second pro season and easily exceeded his rookie year statistics . . . after appearing in 51 games as a rookie, Kenny's playing time increased to 78 contests in '85-'86, averaging 14.4 minutes of court time . . . averaged 6.4 points and 2.6 boards, far above his rookie figures of 3.8 ppg and 1.6 caroms per outing . . . field goal marksmanship improved dramatically in his second year, hitting .513% (third on the team) compared to .440% in his first campaign . . . eclipsed .500% from the floor 46 times and canned .529% of his field goal tries at the Arena . . . free throw percentage did drop to .689%, a bit below his first year mark of .750% . . . finished his rookie year with 38 assists and nine steals, but those totals ballooned to 79 feeds and 51 thefts during his sophomore season . . . averaged only one miscue every 14.5 minutes played . . . posted 19 double figure scoring efforts in which the Bucks record was 16-3 — five of those performances came in a seven game stretch (games 55-62) and in that span Kenny averaged 11.9 ppg and made a remarkable 36-50 (.720%) field goals . . . also in that hot streak Kenny netted his career high in points by pouring in 23 markers on 10-11 field goal shooting vs. the Knicks on 3/3/86 . . . eclipsed his NBA single season career highs in games played and started, minutes, minutes average, FGM, FGA, FG%, FTM, FTA, offensive, defensive and total rebounds, rebound average, assists, assist average, steals, turnovers, blocked shots, points, scoring average, personal fouls and three pointers made and attempted.

1986 Playoffs: Had his first taste of NBA playoff action in 1986 . . . missed the 1985 playoffs due to a severely sprained right ankle sustained late in the regular season . . . played in 12 playoff contests in 1986 while getting the starting nod in four of those games . . . averaged 7.4 markers per game on the strength of an impressive .551 FG% . . . his scoring high came in game #1 of the conference finals vs. Boston when he netted a team high 18 points on 8-11 shooting from the floor . . . as a starter, averaged 10.3 points in 18 minutes of action while making .586% of his field goals . . . lone disappointment in the 1986 playoffs came at the charity stripe where he hit just .522%.

College: One of the most successful players in the history of U.C.L.A. he finished his four year career for the Bruins ranked number six among the school's all-time scoring leaders behind Lew Alcindor (now Kareem Abdul-Jabbar), Bill Walton, David Greenwood, Gail Goodrich, and former Buck Marques Johnson . . . selected to the All-Pac 10 Conference First Team for the third time following the 1983-1984 season . . . averaged 17.4 points and 6.9 rebounds per game his senior season . . . started the first 16 games of his freshman season at U.C.L.A. and finshed the season as the fourth highest scorer with a 10.1 ppg mark and led the Bruins in field goal percentage . . . increased his production as a sophomore and was voted U.C.L.A. Bruin Bench player of the year for most improvement in all-around play and attitude . . . selected Pac-10 and West Coast Player of the Year after his junior season when an 18.0 ppg average was highest by a U.C.L.A. player since Kiki Vandeweghe scored 19.5 ppg in 1979-80 . . . named to third team All-American by the Associated Press after leading the Bruins to a 23-6 record . . . in his senior year Kenny led the team in scoring for the second consecutive season with a 17.4 ppg average . . . scored in double figures 27 of 28 games, topped by a career high 28 point performance in the final game of his career vs. Oregon State . . . in addition to ranking No. 6 on the scoring list, he is number 12 on the U.C.L.A. all-time rebounding list and seventh on the all-time field goal percentage sheet . . . started a total of 100 games for U.C.L.A. including the final 84.

High School: Averaged 25.5 points and 18 rebounds as a senior at L.A.'s Verbum Dei to earn first-team All-America honors from Scholastic Coach magazine and McDonald's . . . played in several post-season all-star games, scoring 18 points in the McDonald's East-West game and 15 in the Dapper Dan Classic . . . once scored 52 points in a game . . . earned first-team All-American honors as a junior by averaging 12.8 points, 12.0 rebounds and 4.0 assists . . . led Verbum Dei to the CIF 4A championship that year . . . All-CIF three times . . . served as captain and student body president.

Personal: Kenny has patterned his style of play after that of former College Player of the Year and former Buck Marques Johnson . . . in fact Fields wore the same jersey number (54) as Johnson and former U.C.L.A. head coach Larry Farmer . . . History major . . . enjoys racquetball and trains . . . Kenny and his wife LaSandra have a 2½ year old daughter, Racquel . . . personally conducted a youth camp of anti-drug counseling and basketball fundamentals for 200 boys and girls from the Watts/Willowbrook Boys and Girls Club in Los Angeles at Compton College — the camp was entitled "Lift as you Climb" and U.C.L.A. head coach Walt Hazzard was the primary counselor.

'85-'86 Regular Season: Added a deadly jump shot to Milwaukee's attack when acquired by the Bucks from the Hawks near the midpoint of the season . . . was a holdout with Atlanta up to that point and didn't appear in any Hawk games in '85-'86 . . . officially became a full fledged member of the squad on 1/29/86 when Atlanta didn't match Milwaukee's offer sheet . . . originally signed a 10 day contract with the Bucks 1/1/86 . . . in that first stint with Milwaukee (which covered five games) Mike averaged 4.2 ppg in 11.6 minutes . . . for the season he posted marks of 6.2 points and 1.5 boards in 15.1 minutes of action . . . played in 38 contests, while getting the starting nod in one of those . . . in that starting role Mike scored 11 points and had four boards against Indiana on 3/14/86 . . . entered the season as a .546 FG% shooter, but was below that mark at .495% for Milwaukee . . . was deadly from the charity stripe sinking 47-49 for .959% . . . was the safest Buck, averaging just one bobble every 31.8 minutes . . . reached 10 points on eight occasions and the Bucks went 5-3 in those contests . . . five of those double-digit affairs came in a six game stretch (games 63-68) when Mike scored at a 10.2 clip and hit 25-44 FGA's for .568%.

1986 Playoffs: Averaged 11.4 minutes of playing time in 10 playoff appearances in 1986 but didn't fare too well offensively with only a 3.6 ppg average on a subpar .361 FG% — compared to regular season career shooting mark of .543% . . . 1986 playoff high came in game #3 of the first round with the Nets when he scored nine points — averaged 5 ppg in the N.J. series . . . has appeared in 22 playoff games during his career, but 1986 was the first time he advanced futher than the opening round.

Pre-Bucks: Came into the NBA as the 23rd pick in the 1977 draft (second round) by the Chicago Bulls out of Southern Illinois University . . . waived by the Bulls 12/8/77 . . . following the 1977-78 season in Buffalo, during which Mike averaged 7.9 points per game, he was signed by the New York Knickerbockers as a veteran free agent 6/12/78 . . . played the next three seasons with the Knicks before signing with Atlanta 10/12/81 as a veteran free agent . . . over the course of four seasons with Atlanta, Mike averaged 8.0 points, 1.9 assists, and 1.3 rebounds per game on .553% floor and .831% line shooting . . . those same statistics over the course of his nine year professional career are 7.6 points, 1.6 assists, 1.2 rebounds, .543% floor, and .856% line shooting . . . pro career is highlighted by a personal best 31 points vs. the Cleveland Cavaliers as a member of the Knicks 11/15/80 . . . known for his accurate outside jumper, Mike's career field goal percentage of .543% would rank him among the NBA all-time leaders had he attempted more field goals . . . he does rank first on Atlanta's all-time field goal percentage list at .553% and is second on the Hawks all-time free throw percentage list at .831% . . . during the '84-'85 season with Atlanta, Mike set an all-time club field goal accuracy mark of .588% and led the team in free throw percentage (.816%) — missed 22 games, 15 of which were due to a severely sprained ankle sustained 1/15/85.

College: Academic All-American at Southern Illinois . . . Salukis' second all-time top scorer with 1,787 points ranking behind only Walt Frazier . . . career field goal mark was 57% and he never shot below 54% in any collegiate season.

Personal: Both Mike's parents are teachers and his father was the head basketball coach at the Georgia School for the Deaf . . . Mike honed his skills in sign language through his father and has organized and operated basketball camps for the deaf the past seven summers in New York and the past five in Atlanta . . . for his tireless efforts on behalf of the hearing impaired, Mike was awarded the Walter Kennedy Award by the Pro Basketball Writers Association of America in 1981 for his contributions to the community . . . Mike has his degree in math and is a certified stock broker.

'85-'86 Regular Season: Won the NBA three point field goal percentage championship in the final game of the regular season vs. the New York Knickerbockers and Trent Tucker who went into the game in the number one spot — Craig shot 4-6 from the field that night and made his last four in a row . . . finished with 73-162 for .45062% while Tucker, who failed to attempt a bonus shot in the last five regular season games, ended with 41-91 for .45055% . . . Craig's season three point FG% is the highest since the three point shot was introduced in the NBA in the 1979-80 season (Fred Brown held the previous high with .443% in 1979-80) . . . the Bucks resident long range bomber also received national attention by placing second (to Larry Bird) in the Long Distance Shootout at All-Star Saturday in Dallas . . . made three bonus shots in five games and a pair of bombs in 14 others along with the four he netted in the season finale . . . Milwaukee was 13-5 in contests that Craig hit at least two three pointers . . . had two hot streaks from bonus land; in one five game stretch Craig made 11-20 for .550% and in another ten game span connected on 17-28 for a torrid .607% . . . from inside the three point circle Craig finished with his highest average in four pro seasons, netting 682 points and ending with a 10.8 average . . . led the Bucks in assists seven times and steals nine times, finishing with marks of 3.5 feeds and 1.1 thefts a game . . . Milwaukee had a 11-0 record when Craig had at least six assists and a 30-10 slate when he scored in double figures . . . Craig sustained a dislocated right index finger on his shooting hand against Detroit 12/30/85 and his marks did drop after he returned from the injured list after missing 15 games (for the year Craig missed 16 games, more than his total of 12 for his first three pro seasons combined) . . . before the injury Craig averaged 11 ppg and 4.1 feeds an outing, while shooting .526% in 34 games . . . following his return Craig had marks of 10.7 points, 2.8 assists and .473 FG% in 32 contests . . . in the milestones department Craig smashed the Bucks record for three pointers made and attempted by making 73-162 for .451% (his career percentage from bonus range entering the 1985-86 season was only .284%) . . . set a career high in FT% at .872% far above his previous best of .815% . . . recorded his 900th assist in game #59, 300th steal in #72, 500th rebound in #78 and 2,900th point in #81 . . . eclipsed his NBA single season career highs in games started, FG%, FT%, scoring average, low for personal fouls, three pointers made and attempted and three point field goal percentage.

1986 Playoffs: Tied the NBA playoff record for steals in a game with eight and for three pointers made in a post-season tilt with five — both occurred in game #6 of the conference semifinals against Philadelphia . . . in the 76ers series, Craig recorded 23 steals in all, giving him the second highest total for a seven game series in League history . . . that was the main highlight in the 1986 playoffs for Craig, but there were others as he topped his regular season marks with averages of 32.9 minutes, 13.5 ppg, and 4.5 apg, while shooting .510% from the field — those marks in the regular season were 26.3 mpg, 10.8 ppg, 3.5 apg and .500 FG% . . . also nailed 14-31 three pointers for a very respectable .452% . . . averaged 14.1 ppg in the conference semifinals with Philadelphia including 24 points in the seventh and deciding game . . . set a career playoff high in game #1 of the opening round with New Jersey by netting 25 points on 10-11 FG accuracy.

Pre-Bucks: Was the Clippers third round draft pick (48th overall) in the 1982 collegiate draft . . . was named to Basketball Digest's Second Team All-Rookie squad in 1982-83 . . . started 48 of 76 games played in his rookie campaign, averaging just under 10 points per game . . . was second on the club in assists and played more minutes (2,022) than all but three other players . . . scored a career high 24 points vs. Utah January 16, 1983 . . . passed for a career high 12 assists vs. Golden State December 7, 1982 . . . led the Clippers in three point field goals made with 20, shooting 20-90 for a .222%.

College: Attended Long Beach State University where he was a four year starter . . . had a fine senior season at Long Beach, scoring 17.5 ppg and leading the club in steals with 56 . . . was a First Team All-PCAA selection his senior season and named PCAA Player of the Week twice in 1981-82 . . . holds the 49ers career assist mark with 437 . . . his collegiate high for points in a game was 31 against Utah State in his senior season.

Personal: Was an honors student at Long Beach State where he graduated with a degree in Social Studies . . . Craig and his wife Carlita have two sons; 2½ year old Jibril and 1 year old Jamaal . . . Craig and former Buck,

Charles Davis headed up a series of five rap sessions with area youths prior to Bucks home games through Athletes for Youth — the goal was to instill upon youngsters the values of a good education, social responsibility, and setting goals for oneself . . . conducted basketball clinics back in his home town of Park Forest, Illinois this past summer along with various other locations . . . along with several teammates sang in a local production at the Riverside Theatre of "Children of the World", a localized version of "We are the World", proceeds of which went to help needy families in Ozaukee County . . . played in the NBA Pro-Am League in Milwaukee and was named MVP of the NBA Pro-Am National All-Star Classic held August 13-16 at City College in New York.

'85-'86 Regular Season: A chipped bone in his right ankle the day before training camp opened was an indication of things to come for Paul as injuries sidelined him every time he was rounding into playing shape... the original injury forced him to miss the entire training camp and exhibition season, and although he opened the season on the Bucks' roster, Paul was hampered by that injury throughout the first half of the 1985-86 campaign . . . appeared in the first 36 contests of the season averaging 3.4 points and 3.6 caroms in 12.6 minutes . . . then was troubled by an aching right knee which eventually underwent arthroscopic surgery 1/8/86 . . . was placed on the injured list and missed 23 games during that stretch . . . returned for game #60, but played in only six contests before returning to the injured list, again due to the troublesome right knee . . . came off the injured list 4/7/86 and played in the Bucks' final four tilts . . . appeared in just 46 games averaging 3.2 points and 2.3 rebounds in 11.8 minutes . . . those marks are below his previous six year averages of 4.9 ppg and 3.9 rpg . . . Mo was coming off the finest year of his career in 1984-85 when he posted marks of 6.2 points and 5.2 boards per outing . . . did manage to record his 400th game and 1,500th rebound . . . also had a subpar shooting season, sinking only .424% of his FGA's which is well below his career mark of .466%.
1986 Playoffs: Took part in all 14 playoff contests in 1986 averaging 7.2 minutes and 2.4 points per contest . . . has appeared in 42 post-season tilts as a pro and has always shot well from the field — canned .519% of his tries in 1986 and is now at .508% for his playoff career . . . his best effort in the 1986 playoffs came in game #3 of the open round round vs. New Jersey when he tallied six points and gathered four boards in just seven minutes — included in that performance was a crucial three point play in the waning seconds that clinched the series.
College: Finished his career at the University of Kansas as the fifth leading rebounder of all-time . . . during his senior year he averaged 14.1 points per game as the Jayhawks finished second to Oklahoma in the Big Eight.
Personal: Paul and his wife Linda are the parents of one-year-old Michael . . . Paul's father Cass Mokeski played basketball at the University of Detroit and Gonzaga . . . Paul is a journalism graduate who plans to do graduate work in mass communications . . . one of the more popular players on the team, Paul makes numerous appearances at charitable and fund-raising events in the Milwaukee area and feels particularly close to the efforts at Milwaukee Children's Hospital and the MACC Fund . . . once served as guest conductor of the Milwaukee Symphony Orchestra in a fund-raising event . . . sang with several teammates in a localized version of "We of the World" at the Riverside Theatre — proceeds of which went to help needy families in Ozaukee County.

'85-'86 Regular Season: Before reviewing the '85-'86 season let's list Sidney's major honors and awards: All-NBA First Team, 1983 . . . All-NBA Second Team, 1982, 1984, 1985, 1986 . . . NBA Defensive Player of the Year, 1983 and 1984 . . . NBA All-Defensive First Team, 1983, 1984, 1985, 1986 . . . NBA All-Defensive Second Team, 1982 . . . as for the '85-'86 season Sidney eclipsed his NBA single season career highs in free throw percentage, three pointers made and attempted, and three point field goal percentage . . . made a move in nearly every category on Milwaukee's career lists including taking over the top spot in free throws attempted . . . moved ahead of Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's total of 3,462 and now has 3,619 (already holds first position in free throws made) . . . took over the number two spot in steals with 741, jumping over Marques Johnson (697) and Brian Winters (675) . . . biggest leap came in Bucks' career assist list, catapulting from seventh to third with 2,176 and surpassing Oscar Robertson (2,156), Bob Dandridge (1,956), Marques Johnson (1,934) and Jon McGlocklin (1,921) . . . is now fourth in points scored with 9,799, having leap-frogged Brian Winters (9,474) and Junior Bridgeman (9,717) . . . career games list now features Sid in the fifth spot with 536 having moved in front of Marques Johnson (524) and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar (467) . . . passed Jon McGlocklin's total of 3,315 field goals made and is now entrenched in the sixth spot with 3,364 . . . also in the sixth position in field goals attempted with 6,658, surpassing Jon McGlocklin (6,561) once again . . . did move in front of Junior Bridgeman (2,590) in rebounds with 2,646, but remained sixth because Alton Lister passed him . . . recorded his fourth straight season of averaging at least 20 points a game finishing at 20.2 . . . averaged 35.2 minutes per outing in 73 contests — his lowest playing time since the 1980-81 campaign . . . missed nine games for the season and in his seven year career has missed the opening tap just 36 times (has played in 94% of the Bucks' games) . . . tallied 1,000 points for the sixth consecutive year . . . paced Milwaukee in free throws made and attempted for the second straight year, sinking 498-580, for a team and career high .859% — came into the season first on the Bucks' career list in FTM and now is also tops in FTA . . . averaged 6.8 points from the line in the '85-'86 season . . . was second on the team in assists, dishing out 334 feeds for an average of 4.6 per effort . . . shattered his career highs in three pointers made and attempted, canning 33-103 (.320%) — in his first six seasons was a combined 18-85 for .212% . . . led the Bucks in scoring 28 times, assists 17 times and steals on 17 occasions . . . scored in double figures all but five games, including the last 44 outings . . . eclipsed 100 steals for the fifth year in a row (with total of 103) . . . had his lowest totals in rebounds and blocked shots since his rookie season ending with 334 caroms and 18 swats . . . in the second of back-to-back games, Sidney averaged 21.8 ppg on .500 FG% — those stats are actually above his season marks of 20.2 points per outing and .489 FG% . . . netted point number 9,500 in game #66 against the Suns . . . played in 500th game in #36 . . . surpassed the 18,000 minute mark in game #81 . . . recorded steal number 700 in game #40 . . . was Milwaukee's lone representative in the 36th Annual All-Star game in Reunion Arena in Dallas, Texas —received the third highest number of votes among Eastern Conference guards, but an injury to Chicago's Michael Jordan thrust Sidney into his second starting role (other starting nod came by vote of the fans in 1984) — Moncrief's five appearances in the mid-season classic ties him with Kareem Abdul-Jabbar for the most appearances by a Milwaukee Buck.

1986 Playoffs: Despite being hampered by a severely strained left heel, which he aggravated in game #3 of the opening round vs. the Nets, Sidney managed to appear in nine playoff games and finished as the Bucks second leading scorer with a 16.9 average . . . Sidney owns a 17.5 average through 62 playoff contests and he reached the 1,000 point plateau in game #4 of the conference semifinals with Philadelphia — then in game #4 of the conference finals with Boston, Sid moved into third place ahead of Bob Dandridge on the Bucks career playoff scoring leaders list . . . now has 1,088 points and trails only Kareem Abdul-Jabbar (1,692) and Marques Johnson (1,163) . . . Bucks were 1-4 without Moncrief during the playoffs in 1986 and 6-3 with him . . . averaged 36.3 minutes of playing time and had 4.6 rpg and 4.9 apg, while shooting a subpar .426% from the field and .698% from the line . . . although Sid did can .512% from the field in three games of conference semifinals vs. Philadelphia, including a 23-point effort in the seventh and deciding game on 9-16 shooting . . . led the Bucks in scoring just once and that was his 1986 playoff high, a 27-point performance in game #4 of the conference finals against Boston.

College: All-American and Southwest Conference Player of the Year at Arkansas during his senior season . . . leading scorer and rebounder in Razorback history . . . led the NCAA in field goal percentage in 1976 (.665%) . . . Sporting News All-America Second team, 1979 . . . represented the United States team that won the World

Invitational Games in 1978 . . . writers tabbed him "Sid the Whiz Kid," "Sidney the Incredible" and one newspaper headline called Moncrief "The player of the ages rather than of the decade." . . . averaged 22 points per game during his senior year along with 9.6 rebounds, 2.7 assists and 1.5 steals in 38.5 minutes of play . . . registered a collegiate career high 39 points against Southern Mississippi.

Personal: Sidney and his wife Debra call Glendale, Wisconsin their home during the season and reside in Little Rock, Arkansas during the summer . . . came back to Wisconsin for Nellie's Farm Fund telethon on WTMJ-TV where he teammed with Gorman Thomas of the Brewers to solicit donations for the fund raiser . . . makes numerous personal appearances in both Wisconsin and Arkansas as well as across the country . . . active in the MACC Fund, Special Olympics, and several other charitable organizations . . . sits on the board of directors for the Arkla Corporation — the Arkansas-Louisiana Gas Company — which also is a manufacturing firm for backyard gas grills and many other industrial products . . . teammed with his former collegiate coach, Eddie Sutton, several summers ago to do an instructional film for Special Olympics.

'85-'86 Regular Season: A leading contender for the NBA's Sixth Man of the Year Award and in fact finished second to Boston's Kevin McHale in the balloting . . . had a storybook season, setting career highs in every statistical category except blocked shots . . . in fact he exceeded his three year totals for assists with 177 and for steals with 83 and nearly equaled his career totals in points, minutes played, field goals made and free throws made . . . tallied 1,127 points for the season for an average of 13.9 points an outing (fourth on the team) — in his first three pro seasons scored 1,213 points . . . netted a career high 32 points against the Nets in a starting role in game #63 . . . also added 2.9 boards and 2.2 assists in a career high 26.5 minutes . . . logged 2,147 minutes for the year, increasing his career total to over 4,500 — totaled 2,427 minutes in his first three years . . . after missing 94 contests the previous three campaigns, Ricky played in all but one during the 1985-86 season . . . eclipsed his NBA single season career highs in games played, minutes, minutes average, FGM, FGA, FG%, FTM, FTA, FT%, offensive, defensive, and total rebounds, rebound average, assists, assist average, steals, turnovers, points, scoring average, personal fouls, disqualifications, and three pointers made and attempted . . . greatest asset is his deadly marksmanship as he ranked second on the squad in FG% at .538% and second in free throw accuracy at .858% . . . eclipsed .500% from the field 51 times including 27 times in his last 40 outings . . . was perfect from the charity stripe on 41 occasions . . . paced the bench in scoring 43 times . . . came off the bench in 73 games and played the role of sixth man on 19 occasions in which he posted marks of 14.5 points and 3.3 boards, while shooting .515% from the field . . . Bucks' success hinged somewhat on Ricky's scoring prowess, as the club was just 13-7 in games that he failed to reach double figures — meaning Milwaukee was a formidable 45-18 when he eclipsed 10 markers . . . did start eight ballgames and production rose to 18.4 points and 4.0 rebounds each outing, while FG% went up to .564%.
1986 Playoffs: Averaged 11.1 per contest in 13 playoff games hitting double figures seven times —including a career playoff high 23 points in game #3 of the conference semifinals vs. Philadelphia . . . after hitting at a .538% clip from the floor in the regular season, Ricky shot just .460% in the playoffs . . . his free throw shooting rose to .889% in the playoffs, up from .858% in the regular campaign . . . sparkled in the seven game conference semifinal set with the 76ers averaging 15.1 ppg on .533 FG% marksmanship — hit double figures in six of the seven games in the series.
College: Was the second leading scorer in the NCAA Division I during his senior year at Rice University with an average of 26.8 ppg . . . played his final three seasons of college ball at Rice after one year at Walla Walla Community College in Walla Walla, Washington . . . was Rice's leading scorer and rebounder all three years he played there . . . set school marks for most field goals (314), scoring average (26.8), free throws made (177), and points (805) in his senior campaign . . . was named to the United States Basketball Writers First Team All-American squad, Basketball Weekly's Second Team and AP Third Team in his senior season.
Personal: Ricky and his wife, the former Joyce Wright, were married during the off-season . . . Joyce is a former member of the Fifth Dimension and has sung the national anthem at several Bucks home games . . . left the group to work on a solo album . . . the couple lives in Houston during the off-season, the home of his collegiate alma mater, Rice University.

'85-'86 Regular Season: Once again was named to the NBA All-Defensive First Team duplicating the honor he won in 1985 . . . moved into the top ten in three categories on the Bucks' all-time career list . . . jumped over Dave Meyers (1,083), Bob Lanier (1,067) and Jon McGlocklin (1,018) in free throws attempted and is now eighth with 1,186 . . . holds the ninth spot in free throws made with 858, moving past Bob Lanier (785) and Flynn Robinson (767) . . . bettered Lucius Allen (1,347) and Lloyd Walton (1,044) on the assists list and fills the ninth spot with 1,625 . . . a lowlight in an otherwise super season was that Paul tied the team record for miscues in a game with nine (2/20/86 vs. Houston) . . . eclipsed his NBA single season career highs in free throw percentage, assists, assist average, steals, blocked shots, three pointers made and attempted and tied games started . . . became only the second player in Bucks history to pass for over 600 assists, finishing with 623 for an average of 7.8 feeds a game — Oscar Robertson's total of 668 assists in the 1970-71 season is the only higher effort . . . led all NBA forwards in dishing the ball for the second straight year . . . Press' passing was directly related to Bucks' success, as the team went 50-13 when he had at least six feeds in a game . . . led the Bucks in assists on 61 occasions and passed for more than 10 feeds 23 times . . . has become a good free throw shooter, hitting at a .806% clip for the season, which was far above his career mark (.683%) and previous best (.758%) coming into the 1985-86 season . . . missed more than two free throws in a game on only seven occasions . . . had three or more thefts in 32 games and the Bucks were 24-8 in those contests —led the team in steals 39 times . . . eclipsed the 1,000 point plateau for the second year in a row and finished with a 14.3 average (third on the club) . . . led the team in scoring 10 times . . . had 20 double-doubles with 18 of those coming in assists and points and two via rebounds and points . . . Bucks were 15-3 in the former and 0-2 in the latter games . . . recorded one triple-double, finishing with 11 points, 10 caroms and 10 assists in game #72 . . . recorded his 1,500th feed in game #65 while scoring point number 3,500 in game #74 . . . was simply fantastic in the second half of the 1985-86 season averaging 14.9 points and 8.7 assists each outing, while connecting on .508% of his field goal tries and .821% of his FTA's . . . over the opening 41 games those marks were considerably lower at 13.8 ppg and 7.0 feeds a game, with .468 FG% and .789 FT% . . . represented the Bucks in the NBA's slam dunk competition at All-Star Saturday in Dallas.

1986 Playoffs: Was masterful in the 1986 playoffs posting marks of 37.9 minutes, 16.1 points, 7.9 assists, and 4.3 boards per game — above sterling season averages of 33.8 minutes, 14.3 points, 7.8 feeds, and 5.0 caroms . . . hit double figures in 12 of the 14 games and had two double-doubles in points and assists . . . enjoyed what was likely his best game as a pro in game #5 of the conference semifinal vs. Philadelphia when he recorded a triple-double with 23 points, 16 assists and 10 boards — the 16 assists tied a Bucks playoff record, which he had already shared with Oscar Robertson . . . in addition, Paul set team playoff standards for FTM and FTA in that game, connecting on 15-17 attempts . . . in the seven game series with the 76ers, Paul finished with marks of 15.9 points, 9.6 assists and .522 FG% — for the entire playoffs he hit .484% from the field . . . has now appeared in 47 post season contests with an 11.4 ppg mark.

College: Voted second team All-American by UPI and third team All-American by AP during senior year at the University of Tulsa . . . named Missouri Valley Conference Player-of-the-Year 1981-82 and was twice named to the All-MVC First team . . . was selected for five different all-star games: the Coaches' East-West game, the Athletes-in-Action game, the Pizza Hut Classic, the Aloha Classic and the Sertoma Charities game . . . led Tulsa to its two winningest seasons in history, 26-7 and the NIT Championship during the 1980-81 campaign and 24-6 and an NCAA tourney berth for 1981-82 . . . paced the Golden Hurricanes with a 13.2 scoring clip . . . led the nation in steals with 96 during his junior year and responded with 95 thefts his senior season . . . set NIT record with six steals against UTEP and then topped that with seven against West Virginia . . . Pressey set or tied seven game and career records at Tulsa for steals . . . hit for 31 points vs. Oklahoma for a single game high . . . at the NIT, he thrilled the Madison Square Garden crowd when he drove, hung in mid-air, and faked twice bringing the ball all the way around his body before slapping it to a teammate for an easy layup . . . added such honors as Sports Illustrated Player of the Week, All-American selection by the United States Basketball Writers Association and National Association of Basketball Coaches.

Junior College: Led Western Texas Junior College to a 37-0 JUCO National title . . . Consensus All-American and touted as one of the five top JUCO transfers by Basketball Weekly . . . named MVP in national tournament . . . averaged 13.9 points, 7.9 rebounds, 5.0 assists, 3.7 steals and 1.6 blocked shots per game.

High School: Played two years at Richmond Wythe in Richmond, Virginia.
Personal: Graduated from Tulsa University with a degree in physical education . . . has six sisters and one brother . . . Paul and his wife Elizabeth are the parents of 2½ year old Ashley Chavon and six-month-old Angela.

*DNP — Did not play. DND — Did not dress. DNT — Did not travel. NWT — Not with team.

For the 1985-86 season the Milwaukee Bucks missed 108 player games due to injury or illness. Over the last nine seasons (since 1977-78, Don Nelson's first full year as head coach), the Bucks have totaled 811 player games missed due to injury or illness, an average of 90.1 per season. Those figures can be compared to the Bucks rival in the Central Division, Detroit, who over the past eight seasons have totaled 830 plus games due to injury or illness, an average of 104 player games missed each season. New York registered an all-time NBA high of 386 manpower games missed due to injury during the 1985-86 season topping the mark they set in 1984-85 of 339. By year, here is the Milwaukee breakdown:
1977-78 — 20, 1978-79 — 99 (Meyers missed entire season due to a bad back), 1979-80 - 52, 1980-81 — 41, 1981-82 — 106, 1982-83 — 163, 1983-84 — 84, 1984-85 — 137, 1985-86 — 108.

1985-86 STARTING LINEUP SHUFFLE

Through the 1985-86 season the Milwaukee Bucks were fortunate to have a great deal of stability in their starting five unit. In fact since we've been keeping tabs on this particular piece of information back in the 1981-82 season, this marks the season of least adjustments. In 1981-82 the club ran through 18 different starting combos. For the 1982-83 season the Bucks totaled 163 player games missed due to injury and withstood 27 roster changes leading to 23 different starting lineups. For the 1983-84 season 23 different lineups answered the tap for 82 regular season games. During the 1983-84 season there were 84 missed games due to injury and 12 roster changes. In 1984-85 the Bucks used just twelve different starting combinations. There were 137 player games missed due to injury and 14 roster changes. In 1985-86 ten different starting combinations were employed roughly related to the 108 player games missed due to injury and the 14 roster fluctuations. The ten different starting lineups represents the least amount of shuffling Don Nelson has done with the starting lineup in the past five seasons.

The most frequent grouping in the manpower juggling act was Terry Cummings and Paul Pressey at forward, Randy Breuer at center, with Craig Hodges and Sidney Moncrief at guard. That starting five compiled a 25-9 record, a winning percentage of .735%. The group first came together on November 7 when Breuer was inserted in the starting lineup for Lister. Thirteen games later Don Nelson made the permanent changeover in the pivot with Breuer as the regular starter and Lister coming off the bench. That decision was made for the November 30 Indiana game.

Only Terry Cummings appeared in every starting lineup. Breuer is next having appeared in 9 of the 10 combinations followed by Pressey with 8, Moncrief 7, Hodges 6, Fields 3, Davis 2, and Lister, Lamp, Glenn, Pierce, and Reynolds each playing with one of the combinations.

Here are the starting lineups and their records:

BUCKS CAREER LEADER CHANGES OVER THE COURSE OF THE 1985-86 SEASON

(Bucks totals unless otherwise noted)

THE TEAM — The Bucks finished 57-25 for the season and that marked the sixth straight 50 win campaign for Milwaukee, breaking the club record of five straight from 1969-70 to 1973-74 . . . the club broke long-standing records in both free throws made and attempted finishing the season with 2,063 makes in 2,701 tries from the charity stripe. Those totals replace the old marks for free throws made of 1,996 in 1969-70 and free throws attempted of 2,638 in 1968-69 . . . for the third consecutive season Milwaukee lowered its team record for turnovers, committing just 1,369 and eclipsing the old mark of 1,382 (set in the 1984-85 campaign) . . . the Bucks set one single-game record during the 1985-86 season, connecting on .667% of their field goals (54-81) vs. Sacramento in game #28 and winning by a whopping 58 points, 140-82. That skyrocketing percentage shattered the old mark of .658% which was set on two occasions; 11/24/79 vs. Chicago and 2/25/84 vs. San Antonio.

COACH DON NELSON — Moved into 11th place on the all-time NBA coaches win list surpassing Billy Cunningham (454 victories) and Alex Hannum (471) . . . has totaled 490 triumphs in 10 seasons with Milwaukee against only 312 defeats (.611%).

ALTON LISTER — Became the leading shot blocker in franchise history in game #68 (3/15/86) when he swatted five Chicago shots and finished the game with 712 rejections, leaving him two in front of Harvey Catchings (710) . . . ended the season with 744 career blocks . . . jumped into sixth place on career list for rebounds with 2,797, surpassing Junior Bridgeman (2,590) . . . moved into ninth place in games played with 404, ahead of Harvey Catchings (372) . . . broke into the Bucks career list for minutes played, replacing Lucius Allen (8,901) with his total of 8,929 minutes.

SIDNEY MONCRIEF — Made a move in nearly every category on Milwaukee's career lists, including taking over the top spot in free throws attempted . . . moved ahead of Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's total of 3,462 and now has 3,619 (already holds first position in free throws made) . . . took over the number two spot in steals with 741, jumping over Marques Johnson (697) and Brian Winters (675) . . . biggest leap came in Bucks' career assist list, catapulting from seventh to third with 2,176 and surpassing Oscar Robertson (2,156), Bob Dandridge (1,956), Marques Johnson (1,934) and Jon McGlocklin (1,921) . . . is now fourth in points scored with 9,779, having leap-frogged Brian Winters (9,474) and Junior Bridgeman (9,717) . . . career games list now features Sid in the fifth spot with 538 having moved in front of Marques Johnson (524) and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar (467) . . . passed Jon McGlocklin's total of 3,315 field goals made and is now entrenched in the sixth spot with 3,364 . . . also in the sixth position in field goals attempted with 6,658, surpassing Jon McGlocklin (6,561) once again . . . did move in front of Junior Bridgeman (2,590) and Greg Smith (2,881) in rebounds with 2,968 and is now fourth.

PAUL PRESSEY — Moved into the top ten in three categories on the Bucks' all-time career list . . . jumped over Dave Meyers (1,083), Bob Lanier (1,067) and Jon McGlocklin (1,018) in free throws attempted and is now eighth with 1,186 . . . holds the ninth spot in free throws made with 858, moving past Bob Lanier (785) and Flynn Robinson (767) . . . bettered Lucius Allen (1,347) and Lloyd Walton (1,044) on assists list and fills the ninth spot with 1,625 . . . a lowlight in an otherwise super season was that Press tied the team record for miscues in a game with nine . . . accomplished that on 2/20/86 vs. Houston . . . others doing that were Dave Meyers on 10/12/79 and Quinn Buckner on 12/6/80 and 2/21/82.

ALL—TIME NBA STATISTICS

TOP CAREER SCORERS

Figures from National Basketball League are included below; NBL did not record field goal attempts, however, so all field goal percentages listed here are based only on field goals and attempts in NBA competition. Minutes played not compiled prior to 1952; rebounds not compiled prior to 1951.

TALE OF THE TURNSTYLES

NBA regular season attendance topped the 11 million mark for the first time in the League's 40 year history during the 1985-86 season as a total of 11,214,888 fans attended the NBA's 943 regular season games.

That represents an increase of 6.7 percent over the 1984-85 total of 10,506,355 and marks the third year in a row of record attendance. The average crowd of 11,893 also set a record, topping the mark of 11,141.

Through the first 18 years of the Milwaukee franchise, the Bucks have drawn a regular season total of 7,219,994 over 709 games for an average attendance of 10,183 or .928% of capacity. The Bucks ranked 15th in attendance in the NBA during the 1985-86 season dropping a notch from their 14th place ranking the previous two seasons.

The best all-around season for attendance was in 1979-80 when the club set records in percent of capacity (.997%), total sellouts (39 of 41), and number of consecutive sellouts (38). The most fans drawn in one season and the best average per game were attained in 1980-81 (first season Arena capacity was 11,052) with a total of 448,336 or 10,936 average.
